Shift In City School Hours Voted

CLASSES WILL START LATER BY HALF HOUR

Miller Says Senior High and Grades To Begin Work at 9 A. M. War Time.

JUNIOR HIGHS AT 8:50

Change Ordered as Means of Saving on Power and Heat,
Superintendent Says.

While workers in Mansfield industries, banks, and offices will set their clocks ahead an hour next Monday and go to work by war time, the city's public schools will "split the difference" and change their schedules only a half hour, it was announced today by Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller.

The time changes for the public schools were set up by Supt. Miller and approved by the board of education. The principal of each building was made responsible for working out the schedule with his teachers.

Under the new school schedule, starting Monday morning, classes will begin at 9 a. m. war time in the elementary and senior high school and 8:50 a. m. in junior high schools. The present starting time ranges from 8:25 to 8:40 a. m., standard time.

Effect of the change will be to start classes from 20 to 35 minutes later on the basis of war time and to dismiss correspondingly later in the afternoon. Under the new schedule, senior high school will dismiss at 3:30 p. m., war time, junior high schools at 3:45 p. m., and elementary schools at 3:50 p. m. Teachers will be asked to report at 8:30 a. m.

Supt. Miller said the schedule changes, calling for a half hour earlier starting instead of an hour, were arranged for the convenience of pupils who would have to travel to schools before daylight until spring and to effect economy in light and heat. To start classes earlier than 8:50 a. m. war time, would mean added expense for lights and heat until the weather is warmer, he said.

Ice, Slush Blamed For Accidents; 5 Persons Injured

Ice and slush that combined with fog to make the worst driving conditions of the winter last night are blamed for a series of accidents in which five persons were injured in the Mansfield area.

Dozens of minor accidents were reported as rain mixed with sleet and snow coated streets with a layer of ice that makes brakes useless on grades.

Calvin Calhoun, North Main street, suffered an arm fracture and five cars were damaged late yesterday in an accident on North Main street near the Barnes Manufacturing company plant, police reported.

A car driven by Richard Kerr, Shelby R. D. 4, struck Calhoun as

Expect Public Aid In Repeal Of Pensions

Senators Wait Reaction
Against Retirement Aid
for Legislators.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Senators seeking repeal of the pensions-for-congressmen feature of the newly enacted civil service retirement law counted on public pressure today to aid their drive.

The four senators sponsoring the repealer—Harry F. Byrd, D., Va.; Harold H. Burton, R., O.; Josiah W. Bailey, D., N. C.; and Ed C. Johnson, D., Colo.—indicated they did not plan to press for immediate action, in the hope that public reaction would shortly make their task easier. Byrd, however, plans to make a senate speech on the subject soon.

Byrd was the author of an unsuccessful senate amendment which would have required senators and representatives to make five years' back payments into the retirement fund before becoming eligible for its benefits. Johnson and Burton both voted for Byrd's amendment, and Bailey was recorded as not voting. It was defeated 34 to 28.

The act permits members of congress up for re-election this year to wait until after election before deciding whether to apply for inclusion in its benefits. A member with the necessary age and service requirements might even enter the system on Dec. 31 and retire Jan. 1, on payment of $1,400, or 5 per cent of one day's pay. The Civil Service commission said it did not believe any congressman would do such a thing.

Burton said that while the idea of pensions for elective officials had merit, congress should vote it only for those elected hereafter.

"In these days, when congress is called on to pay so many pension plans, it has a peculiar responsibility," Burton said. "Already the Townsend old-age pension organization is using the pensions—for congressmen act as ammunition in its drive for a universal old age pension."

SUB SUNK

British Reveal Attack on Italian Undersea Craft.

LONDON—UPI—The admiralty asserted today that several Italian submarines had "paid the ultimate penalty" after having been sent to help the Germans' submarine campaign in the Atlantic.

One of these, the admiralty said, was the Ferraris, an 880-ton craft armed with eight torpedo tubes, two 3.9-inch guns, which was sunk late in 1941 after having been damaged by a United States-built Catalina flying boat.

The admiralty said the Ferraris had had an "eventful but unsuccessful" history. She was one of four Italian submarines which escaped from Massawa, Eritrea, on the Red Sea, when Italy lost her East African empire and which made a 14,000-mile voyage back to Europe without incident.

Such a cruise was "made possible by meeting with a German supply ship which was sailing under the Stars and Stripes."

DEFENSE COURSES SET

TIFFIN—UPI—Fifteen defense courses will begin Monday at Heidelberg college, with approximately 100 men, chiefly employees of factories here and in neighboring cities, enrolled in engineering and science subjects.

Girls, Red Cross Needs You For Training In Nurses' Aid

Attention, girls! Do you have 80 hours that you can give to training for Nurses' Aid right now? Do you have an additional 150 hours per year that you are willing to give to hospital service for the duration of the war? If you do—the Richland County Nurses' Aid organization wants to hear from you. More than two score of applications have already been received by Richland county chapter of the Red Cross through Civilian Defense but it is doubtful if any of them can meet the 80-hour training requirements simply because most of the applicants have daytime employment. Teachers, office workers and women in various forms of employment were among the first to volunteer for Nurses' Aid service some weeks ago when the Mansfield Civilian Defense organization called for volunteers in every line of defense service. Little was known then of the actual amount of time involved. Applications of approximately 50 women were considered yesterday by the local Nurses' Aid committee headed by Mrs. George L. Draffan as chairman. But the day-

150 WAR VETS NAMED WARDENS

Richland Ex-Service Men To Form Nucleus of Air Raid
Guard of 500.

Enrollment of 150 ex-service men for air raid warden duty in Mansfield in the event of aerial invasion today gave the city its nucleus for an air raid wardens' organization that will be increased to 500 in the near future.

Members of Earl McVey post of the American Legion enrolled this number at its meeting last night when Sam V. Fox, commander, announced that the air raid wardens' organization was open for volunteers.

The men will be assigned to the various wards and precincts throughout the city and as soon as instructors are available will be trained in first aid, one of the first requirements of an air raid warden.

Air raid wardens heading each of the city's six wards and their assistant wardens are now enrolled in the first air instructors' training course which will be completed Feb. 27. They will then be eligible to conduct first aid classes for the wardens in general.

Duties of the air raid wardens were outlined by Commander Fox who emphasized the need of wardens becoming thoroughly acquainted with each family in the sector to which he is assigned so that adequate protection may be given.

R. B. Gardner also spoke regarding the national defense program and the local civilian defense set-up.

Other business transacted by the post pertained to the purchase of an iron lung for use by Mansfield General hospital.

Patriotic Girl, 5, Puts In Plug for Defense Bonds

Mansfield Child Carries on 'Secret' Correspondence
With Uncle Sam and the Kindly Old Gent Replies.

By BETTY STROTHER

Five-year-old Susanne Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Warner, 575 Heineman boulevard, is on really friendly terms with Uncle Sam.

It's a correspondence friendship which, until yesterday, her mother didn't even know about. The friendship, just like that of most all of us grownups, has patriotism behind it. And it was kindly old Uncle Sam himself who yesterday answered Susanne's five letters, each of which expressed a childish desire to "buy defense bonds."

Addressed to Uncle Sam, Washington, D. C., Susanne's first letter read like this:

"I got lots of tin foil. I want to sell them so I can buy some defense bonds." There were a few pennies enclosed from her savings bank. Susanne placed it in the mailbox for the mailman. Not until her small, blue-eyed daughter received a reply from Eugene W. Sloan, executive director of the Defense Savings (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

WARNS GROCERS

Council Hits Practice of 'Coupling' Sugar Sales.

COLUMBUS—UPI—Ohio grocers were warned today by the state council of defense to discontinue the practice of compelling shoppers to purchase a designated amount of groceries before they become entitled to buy sugar.

Those who continue the practice, the council asserted, are subject to federal prosecution by the anti-trust division of the attorney general's office.

Courtney Burton, executive director of the council, disclosed that Thurman Arnold, assistant U. S. attorney general, announced in a letter to the state council that "this practice of 'full-line forcing' is subject to federal prosecution."

Testifying in his own behalf, the auto racing driver, said he had never before had an accident in a lifetime of driving.

'HOLD RANGOON,' CRY

Spokesman Says Command to Keep China Supply Port at All Costs.

(By Associated Press)

RANGOON, Burma—The British officially acknowledged today that Japanese patrols had crossed the lower Salween river at a number of points since the invaders occupied Moulmein last Saturday.

The Japanese occupied Paan, 30 miles above Moulmein, several days ago, a British military spokesman said, and the RAF reported it had subjected the town to a heavy bombing attack today. At the same time British patrols were reported to have penetrated the enemy lines on the east bank of the Salween river.

The military spokesman declared that the British command intends to hold Rangoon "at all costs but," he added, "if Rangoon should go, it would not mean the end of Burma or of the Burma road." Rangoon is the chief port for the Burma road, the Allied supply route to China.

Reports from the Salween front said the Japanese still were balked in their attempts to capture Martaban, across the mouth of the river from Moulmein, by the swift-flowing Salween river itself and by heavy British artillery fire from the west bank.

Since the first of the week they have been trying by heavy artillery fire and bombing to make Martaban untenable for its British and Indian garrison, but British headquarters said this effort had failed.

Japanese skirmishers were reported strung out all along the lower Salween front, but there were indications they lacked strength, at least for the present, to handle a full-dress assault across the river. Their feeler attempts have been thrown back. Thousands of ill-fated Indian riflemen newly from their homeland are engaging the invaders along the line from Martaban to Paan.

10-DAY 'CUSTER'

Butler School Head Off Job For 'Misconduct.'

Willard Weekley, superintendent of the Butler village schools for the past five years, was placed under a 10-day suspension last night by the board of education on charges of "misconduct," according to members of the board of education.

Wade Forbes, a member of the board, said four of the five members voted for the suspension while Forbes backed the superintendent.

"Our schools are as efficient as any in the county and some of the folks down here seem to have fived up something on the superintendent in an attempt to get him out," Forbes said.

Weekley received a new four-year contract last year, but, two new members were elected to the board of education last fall.

Canadian Steel Workers Tour Empire In Production Study

As the first step in a tour of four steel producing cities in the United States six members of the CIO Steel Workers union in Canada today toured the Empire Steel and Tin Plate company in a study of union-management cooperation as a means of enabling them to boost war steel production on their return to the dominion.

Leading the delegation is Joe Scanlon, former Empire employee and staff representative of SWOC headquarters in Pittsburgh. Last night at a banquet tendered the group by Delano lodge, Lieut. Col. A. R. Ginsburgh, representing the U. S. Army, explained the task facing American steel makers in their drive to outstrip Nazi war production.

Ginsburgh claimed that Hitler controlled munitions plants capable of producing enough shells for an army of 10,000,000 men while the United States at present is still striving to lay foundations for a war machine to equip its own army of 1,500,000. This job can only be done, he said, by cooperation between union and management, civilians and military men and Canada and the United States. Following this talk James M. RAF Drops Word Yanks Are Coming

Bombers Strew Occupied
France With Leaflets for United States.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—RAF bombers, doubling as delivery boys for the U. S. A., are strewing occupied France with pamphlets by the millions, proclaiming the gigantic scope of America's war plans and conveying to a conquered people the implicit message: "The Yanks Are Coming."

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early made known the newest series of pamphlet raids today, and disclosed that the leaflet bombardment was particularly intense on the Brittany Peninsula.

The same ports and towns were the first to see the dough-boys a quarter of a century ago, and that maritime section of France would be one of the first likely theaters of action whenever the United States are ready to open a major campaign to regain the continent.

Early, who reported that a total of 1,417,500 pamphlets had been dropped in the latest raids, said he had been told that operations to date constituted "the biggest pamphlet job ever done." More than 2,000,000 leaflets were dropped in the initial raids a month ago.

Significant or not, the Brittany area was the first and only section to date to be blanketed with a new pamphlet—one which contains President Roosevelt's pledge that the United States will "put the weapons of war at the proper time into the hands of those men in the conquered nations, who stand ready to seize the first opportunity to revolt x x x."

The intensive pamphlet bombing served notice that the United States, which used ideological weapons with telling success against Kaiser Wilhelm's Reich, was neglecting no fronts in the total war campaign it had planned for a long-pull victory.

In the current struggle, however, it will be some time before the Nazis themselves are pelted with American printed matter. "The first pamphlets they get from this country," remarked one highly placed official, "will be bombs."

RAF Fighters Bag Planes as

Troop Reinforcements.

(By Associated Press)

SINGAPORE—Despite continuous bombing and strafing by Japanese airmen, Singapore's artillery has blasted enemy observation posts, knocked out opposing batteries and spread destruction among Japanese troops moving into jump-off points for invasion of this island stronghold.

That the Japanese still have not won complete control of the air was demonstrated this morning by RAF Hurricanes which intercepted a large formation over Singapore, shot down one Japanese plane, probably another and damaged a third.

Civilian casualties from the past two days of blasting and machine-gun strafing by the Japanese air force neared the 300 mark—228 injured and 63 killed. The people had virtually no safe places of refuge from bombs. Officially, however, these casualties were called comparatively light.

(The Japanese reported that their guns had been thundering across the mile-wide Johore strait since 6 p. m. yesterday, Singapore time. A Tokyo broadcast said that the siege guns were pouring a steady stream of fire into the British forces and their positions in a grove of rubber trees near the head of the breached causeway leading from the Malayan mainland.)

Large movements of Japanese troops through Johore state toward the shore facing Singapore island were reported by British reconnaissance planes. Enemy troops have been massing in the area of Johore Bahru since the British imperials finally withdrew to their island stronghold last Friday night and early Saturday.

The Japanese guns emplaced across the strait from Singapore began shelling the strongly-fortified island last night and British guns retaliated with a bombardment of Japanese transports in the Johore Bahru area and of gun positions.

Japanese planes kept up their raids, making high level and low (Continued on Page 6, Col. 1)

STATION OPENS

Sergt. Ellifritt In Charge of Army Recruiting Here.

Mansfield now has an Army recruiting station in the city, following the opening yesterday of an office in the Gardner building at 114 Park avenue west.

The station is in the first floor section of the building formerly occupied by Constance Market. Recruiting officers at the new station are Sergeant Robert H. Ellifritt and Private Walter L. Strong. General Army enlistments will be accepted by the officers and the men then will be sent on to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, where they may express their preference as to service branch.

Any man between 18 and 35 may enlist if he obtains a release from his local draft board. Special effort will be made, the officers said, to obtain flying cadets, from 18 to 26, and parachute troops, from 18 to 30. Paratroops receive an additional $50 per month.

The office will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.

CANADIAN STEEL WORKERS TOUR EMPIRE PLANT

Study Production Methods Here In First Stop on Tour of U. S. Cities.

Hill, Empire president, and C. H. Henkel, former president, traced the history of union-management cooperation in Mansfield, showing the various phases of its development through favorable and unfavorable economic periods and praising union leaders for their understanding of the problems of management.

Speaking for the union, both W. F. Bell, Delano president, and Scanlon, said Empire represented a pioneer in union-management cooperation and that it was only possible through the good will of both union men and company officials.

"I never believed such cooperation was possible anywhere in the world before this dinner in Mansfield," I. F. Campbell, union member from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, maintained for the six Canadians.

"Management and the union at the Algoma Steel corporation in my city," he continued, "have entered into a union-management agreement, but I have never realized before the tremendous advantages to such a system to both parties or the extent to which it could boost production to meet war necessities."

Scanlon summed up the ideas presented during the talks in closing the banquet, claiming that such cooperation will "find means to hike production both in the United States and Canada beyond believed possibilities." He added that the plan founded in Mansfield has now been adopted by 34 other U. S. steel plants representing five per cent of the entire industry.

The six Canadians making the tour are Campbell; Cecil Bolitho, Robert J. Conway, and William Mahoney, employed by the Algoma plant; Edward Corbett, employed by the Dominion Steel and Coal corporation of Sydney, Nova Scotia; and George E. Jones, an employee of the Steel Company of Canada of Hamilton, Ont.

Tomorrow the group will go to Cincinnati and Newport, Ky., and then move to Pittsburgh before returning to Canada by way of Cleveland.

Although Lieut. Col. Ginsburgh returned to Washington last night after his talk, Lieut. Henry Ehrlich will represent the army through the rest of the trip.

Other speakers at the banquet last night were Mayor W. J. Locke, A. I. Allen, Empire personnel director, William Lake, Empire general plant superintendent; Lieut. Elsbury; and R. E. Gardner, Mansfield automobile dealer.

Record Program At C. of C. Dinner For 5 Years Hence

Proceedings at the 30th annual meeting of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce on the evening of Feb. 11 will be recorded for posterity—or at least for five years.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager, announced today that records will be made of the proceedings at the program following the dinner which starts at 6:30 p. m. The records, then, will be stored in a bank vault and will be played at the organization's annual meeting five years hence.

Principal speaker will be Claris Adams, president of the Ohio State Life Insurance company at Columbus, who will discuss the current business and economic situation under war conditions. Brief talks also will be given by representatives of various Mansfield companies.

Approximately 350 will attend the meeting, according to Routzon.

GIRL, 5, PUTS IN BOND PLUG

She Writes Letters to 'Uncle Sam' and He Comes Back With an Answer.

staff, Treasury department in Washington, did Mrs. Warner learn that the youngster had been writing "Uncle Sam."

The mailman then revealed that he had found five of the little girl's letters in the door and had sent them on their way.

It all started, explained Mrs. Warner, when she and her husband purchased a defense bond in their daughter's name. At that time they wanted to encourage Susanne to save her pennies. With her mother's help, the youngster wrote a letter to "Uncle Sam," whom she believes to be a real person, telling him that she is saving her pennies to buy defense savings stamps.

Upon completion of the note, Mrs. Warner said she forgot about it, satisfied that Susanne was "saving conscious." But Susanne not only remembered that letter, but also decided to save (in foil to help in the defense program as some of her friends in kindergarten are doing. Because she is too young to compose a letter herself, Susanne obtained assistance from the maid at the Warner residence.

In order to avoid giving the impression that she is mercenary in regard to the saving of tin foil, Susanne hastens to assure everyone that she will be glad to give her collection to Uncle Sam, free of charge.

Having heard a lot of talk about the March of Dimes and the president's birthday, Susanne contributed a dime in the letter she sent to Washington last week.

Not all of her messages have been handprinted; within the last month this little girl has learned to operate a typewriter. The note which "Uncle Sam" will receive today was typewritten. It follows receipt of this letter from Mr. Sloan:

"Dear Susanne: Thank you for your nice letter of recent date. We are indeed glad to know of your desire to buy Defense Savings Stamps." Although she has not learned the song in its entirety yet, Susanne received a complimentary copy of "Any Bonds Today?" from the Treasury department, and you can bet that her little heart will be in her words when she sings it.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1942.

One mistake was to industrialize and mechanize Japan before it was civilized.

Don't worry about having forgotten the geography you learned in school—very little of it is the same now.

After his recent birthday anniversary, and considering the condition of things, President Roosevelt will probably demonstrate what it means to "work like sixty."

Appropriation for Airport

ACTION by city council in appropriating $5,000 for maintenance and minor improvements at the municipal airport this year is in accord with growing recognition of the importance of airport facilities to cities of Mansfield's size.

While the amount appropriated is not sufficient to cover more than a small percentage of the cost of needed improvements at the airport, it at least evidences civic interest in the project and strengthens claim for recognition of the Mansfield port as among those meriting federal aid when funds become available for this purpose.

Decision to place disposition of the special airport fund in the hands of Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, who says he will follow suggestions from James R. Harrington, port manager, encourages belief that the $5,000 will be carefully expended in bringing greatest possible improvement to the airport, as "Bud" Harrington has demonstrated ability to get a dollar in value for every dollar expended at the airport since he has been managing it.

Here To Study Steel Production

MANSFIELD is complimented in being chosen as the first stopping place of a group of union steel workers from Canada who have come to the United States to study steel production methods in this country and to seek ideas that may aid in boosting Canadian steel production for war purposes.

Today's tour of Empire Sheet & Tin Plate company's plant will be followed by inspection of plants in Cleveland, Newport, Ky., and the Pittsburgh district, thus giving opportunity to view operations in steel industries of different sizes.

The Canadian visitors are in this country at the invitation of Philip Murray, president of the CIO, and plans for the tour were made by the Steel Workers Organizing committee, with consent of U. S. army officials, two of whom are accompanying the party, as well as Joseph Scanlon, former Empire employee, who is now associated with the SWOC national office in Pittsburgh.

It is interesting to note that four of the visiting delegation serve as the production committee of SWOC in the first union-management plan of operation adopted by a Canadian steel company, the Algoma Steel Corporation, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, of which they are employees.

Mansfield welcomes these visitors from across the border and is glad to point to Empire as an example of steel plant operation in which the mutual interests of management and employees are fully recognized.

Community Bargain Days, As Usual

THOSE whose memories carry back to 1917-18, when the United States was participating in the first World war, will recall that while the war held a place of primary interest for everyone, community life went along in a quite normal way—with quick adaptation to rationing, doing without certain conveniences, and otherwise adjusting habits to war conditions.

This has also marked the attitude of people who have already been brought close to war conditions in the present conflict, and is being recommended for practice in the United States.

In co-operation with this policy it is quite proper that the Mansfield Retail Merchants association should proceed, as usual, to sponsor the semi-annual Community Bargain Days, to which the people of Mansfield and vicinity have become accustomed through a number of years.

Tomorrow and Saturday are the days—and today's News-Journal presents the advertising messages of the fifty-five co-operating merchants who are making this week-end's shopping particularly attractive.

Every person, and every family, has merchandising needs that must be supplied now, or in the near future, and many will find it a distinct advantage to patronize Mansfield stores during Community Bargain Days.

Scrap Metal Needed for War

NEXT WEEK, starting Monday, will be devoted to collection of scrap metal in Mansfield and Richland county.

This is a part of the national effort to overcome the shortage in scrap needed for war materials and the countywide collection is expected to produce a fair share of the large tonnage being accumulated over the country.

Among suggested items in a current announcement of acceptable junk are the following:

Old lawn mowers, discarded iron pipe, metal, radiators, wire screening (folded and bound into a compact bundle), metal flagpoles, fence sections, baby carriages, old license plates, fireplace dogs, metal containers other than tin, etc.

Farm yards, barns, tool houses, and the basements of old houses in city or country, are the most likely prospecting places for scrap metal that is useless where it is but can be made valuable for war purposes.

Mexico Promotes Goodwill

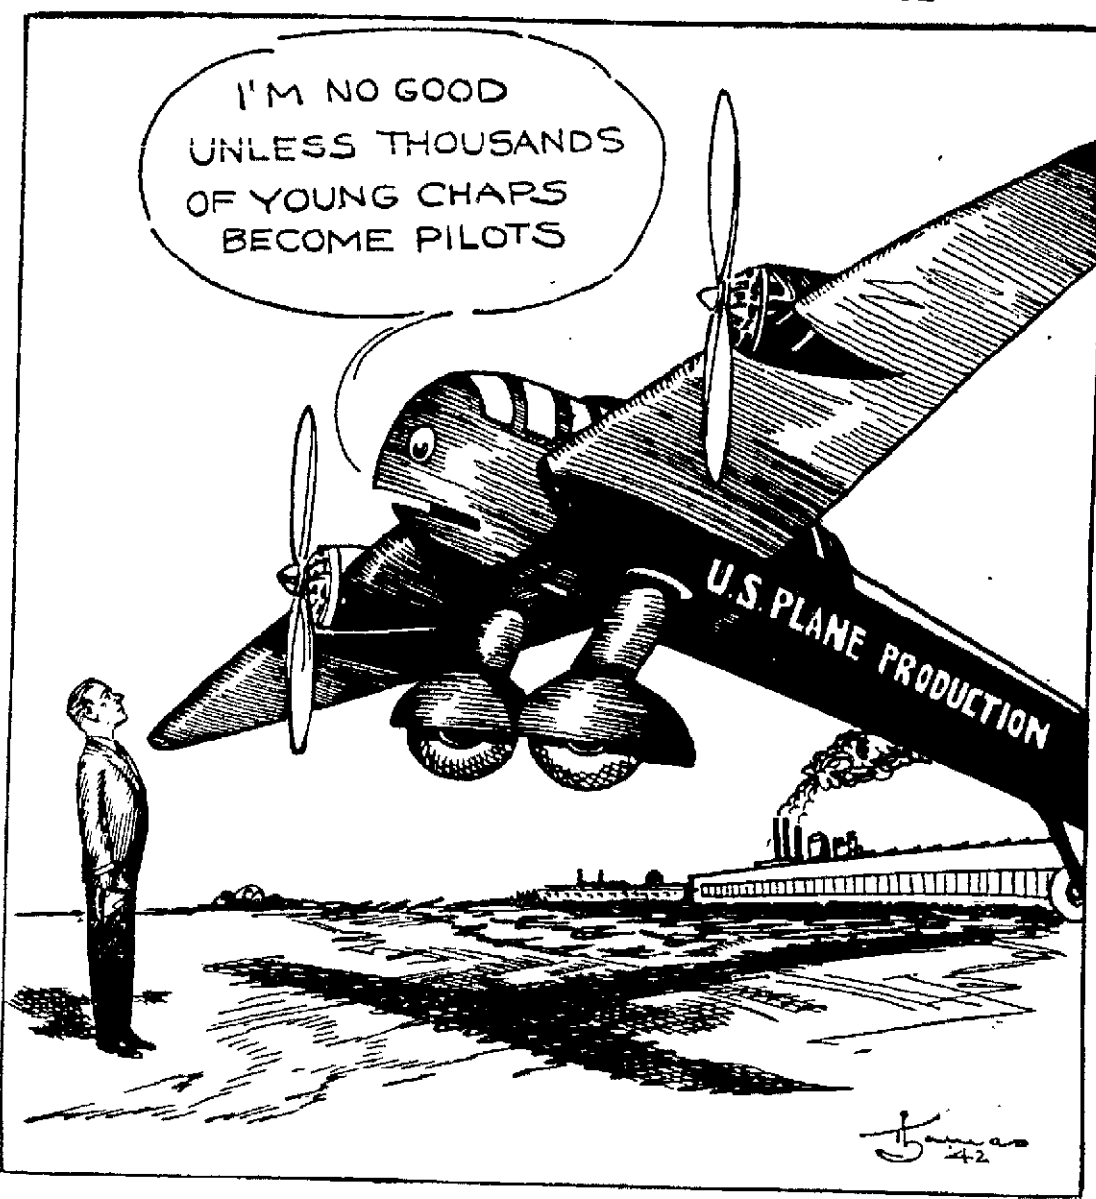

THE Pan-American family seems to be moving rapidly toward fusion. This hemisphere may yet become one big melting pot of New World nations. And in this process Mexico is playing a notable part. It ranks now with Brazil in its contributions for hemispheric unity.

Passive agreement is changing to active promotion, along with our own efforts in this direction. Civil and military pilots in Mexico have formed a "Mexican wing" of an inter-American squadron, and will receive 200 planes as a gift from Nelson Rockefeller. Gen. Roberto Fierro, leader of the "wing," is planning a flight of Mexican pilots around Latin-America to promote friendly relations.

Back in the gay nineties a rubber shortage would have been no more serious than going around without a collar.

Dr. Townsend may at least be credited with convincing congressmen that pensions are nice things to have.

PILOTS AND MORE PILOTS ARE NEEDED

Model Airplane Builders to Help

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — This story might be called "And a little child shall lead them, etc." Because if the United States is ever subjected to air raids, some of the defense may well be attributed to the nation's 2,000,000 or so model airplane builders.

A plan is afoot now, sponsored by the National Aeronautics Association and the navy, and approved by the army air corps, to turn these youngsters with a hobby into builders of model enemy aircraft. From these models, the navy and civilian air defense corps (the army has its own project) may learn everything there is to know about spotting.

THE project belongs primarily to the National Aeronautics Association, which recently consolidated with the Air Youth of America. This brought under direct control of the NAA more than 700 affiliated model clubs, with a quarter of a million members, and more than 12,000 licensed model builders.

From among model builders have come such men as the late Capt. Colin P. Kelly, Jr., the Wright Brothers, Glenn L. Martin, Donald W. Douglas, Igor Sikorski, and William B. Stout.

Civilian air defense, the army and navy are suddenly faced with the problem of teaching thousands to recognize the silhouettes of our own and enemy planes as far distant as powerful field glasses can pick them up. Just how the army is handling this is its secret, but how the navy and civilian defense plan to handle it is a bop and a scrape to what a few years ago was considered merely a childish hobby.

ONE of the largest model airplane companies has placed its staff at the disposal of the government and these draughtsmen and model engineers, working on a 24-hour-a-day schedule are turning out designs and master models of every known plane.

These will not be designs for flying models. They will be specifications and master models of "silhouettes," which will be rushed out to the hundreds of model clubs and millions of model builders for immediate reproduction. These little silhouette planes will be turned over to civilian defense and the navy, so that every plane spotter can acquaint himself with them from every angle.

At the moment, the NAA is primarily interested in coordinating this silhouette model building program with its own aeromodel clubs, elementary and high school manual training classes directed by the United States Office of Education, and the thousands of unaffiliated model building fans.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY
Sunday, Feb. 5, 1922.

Timely Editorial

Gifts To the Government

The war department has come forward with a bulletin defining policy in the matter of money gifts. It was directly inspired by fund raising activities of some 130,000 New York Central System employees, and the statement adds that "several similar programs are being carried out throughout the country."

Essentially the bulletin boils down to the fact that gifts "must be unconditional, otherwise special legislation would be required for their acceptance. Contributions, moreover, must be to the general funds of the United States and cannot be allocated to the purchase of special pieces of equipment, as a medium tank of a heavy bomber."

Naturally the government is more than anxious to receive voluntary contributions, and all efforts to encourage them merit applause. The war department merely seeks to make clear that they cannot be honestly dramatized by the implication that the donors' money will go directly toward the purchase of a particular weapon.

Carefree Wives

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHEN I was your age," my mother-in-law snapped contemptuously, "I had three children, did all the work in my ten-room house, helped my husband in his business and was a cap. A white, ruffled cap. All young wives did. Wives took themselves and their position seriously—then!"

She stopped with an angry snort. I continued to snifle. It was 1903. I was 19, just married, and wanted but two things in all this great world—to go back to California where I could dance, and to buy eight yards of pink dimity for a ruffly dress.

Simple desires they seem now. But at that time I might as well have confessed that I was a confirmed killer with four knicks in my gun. Dancing parties and pink dimity, indeed! And I a married woman!

From which you may gather that marriage in 1903 was a plenty serious business for a young woman. A BRIDE DEFINITELY AND FINALLY STOPPED BEING A GIRL THE MOMENT SHE SAID "I DO." SHE NOT ONLY STOPPED DOING THE THINGS A GIRL DID BUT SHE STOPPED DRESSING LIKE A GIRL, THINKING LIKE

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Military Aid From United States To Give Brazil Greater Strength

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

RIO DE JANEIRO—It was two o'clock in the morning. The Pan-American conference was winding up its last tough day. The foreign ministers of the Western Hemisphere had knocked the heads of Peru and Ecuador together until at long last they promised to settle their century-old boundary dispute, thus ending aggression in the Americas.

Moonlight played on the palm trees outside. White swans glided in the ancient reflecting pool of the foreign office. But Pan-American diplomats, dog-tired, cared naught about moon, swans or palm trees.

Only man still exuding vivaciousness was Brazil's indefatigable Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha. While waiting, he expounded to his colleagues on the evils of Hitler.

"Hitler," said Aranha, "has started two things which he will live to regret. One is his persecution of the Jews. That will come back to haunt Germany for years.

"The other is forcing the United States to become a great military nation. Before Hitler, the United States was one of the least and Mexico was cheered to the echo. The entire conference rose and applauded. But Argentine Foreign Minister Ruiz Ginzau slumped in his seat, his hands clenched, not clapping.

Among the Spanish-speaking countries, Mexico had stolen the show from Argentina. And in hemisphere politics, Portuguese-speaking Brazil had taken a long lead over its traditional rival.

Don't Peeve Reuther.

WASHINGTON—Ernest Kanzler, brother-in-law of Edsel Ford and chief of the automotive division of the war production board, has obtained some interesting lowdown on who's who in the war production setup.

Kanzler's job is to speed up the conversion of the auto industry to full war production. Confering with War Production Chief Donald Nelson, Kanzler complained of "meddling" by Ferdinand Eberstadt, civilian chairman of the army-navy munitions board.

The army-navy munitions board, composed of military brass-hats, was a key agency in the old defense organization. Jealous of their bureaucratic prerogatives, the brasshats now are endeavoring to continue as best shots. Thus Eberstadt and Kanzler have crossed swords several times.

This was Nelson's significant advice to Kanzler.

"Don't worry about Eberstadt. We can handle him. If you make him mad it won't matter. What you want to watch is not to get Walter Reuther mad. If you make him mad, then we will be in hot water and you'll be in trouble with me."

Note: Two-listed young vice president of the United Auto Workers, Reuther is highly regarded as a crack industrial expert by Nelson and Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson. After former OPM Director General Knudsen had repeatedly disregarded proposals by Reuther for increased war production in the auto industry, Patterson went over Knudsen's head and appointed Reuther as his personal representative to make a survey of several auto plants preparatory to converting them to armament production.

Kanzler Takes Hint.

KANZLER lost no time in taking his boss' hint. A few hours later he started action on one of Reuther's chief proposals. Kanzler sent telegrams to all auto, truck and parts manufacturers ordering them to submit by February 5 a list of machine tools in their possession, plus information on what these tools are being used for and the amount of war goods the plants are now making.

A Farmer's Diary

Winter Chores

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THERE is, I think, a special satisfaction in doing chores in winter when such a little bit of human care can make animals so comfortable, and when those same animals give the farmer and his family such welcome yields of milk and eggs and meat as make his living abundant.

Walt Whitman said, in his Leaves of Grass.

"I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contained.

I stand and look at them some-times an hour at a stretch.

They do not sweat and whine about their condition.

They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins.

They do not make me sick discussing their duty to God.

No one is dissatisfied—not one is demoralized with the mania for owning things.

Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived thousands of years ago.

Not one is respectable or industrious over the whole earth."

There is a kind of solace in a shadowy, sheltering barn, where wisps of straw show through the cracks and big beams overhead are dark from age, and where great blocks of stone hold back the bank to make a warm safe shelter from the long established even, have their long established rightness—corn, fodder, straw, bright clover hay—sharp ensilage, and always the warmth of animals and the underlying pungency of dung.

Barn sounds are a melody—from the quaver of new lambs to the deep guttural bellow of the bull, the chomping of the hogs, the horses' braying oars, the shrill high whinner of a colt—milk streaming into empty pails, then whipping through an inch of velvety froth, while hungry kittens mew about the milking room door impatiently.

A farmer reads his newspaper and listens to his radio—he gets confused with tires and taxes, priorities and politics, he wonders what he can do more than he is doing to prove his Americanism, but when he goes to the barn to do his chores, he finds a steady, comfortable rightness there—and knows that the work of his hands will help toward the cause of peace and freedom.

Farming is a simple way of life, but a good way, although it lacks upholstery. As poet has said of farmers, "They know such simple things as well, although their learning is small. They find a steady brown content where some find none at all."

LOSES TENNIS TOURNAMENT, WINS HOLLYWOOD CONTRACT

(By International News Service) HOLLYWOOD — Jim Brown, husky six-footer, won no ribbons or medals in the recent Pacific Southwest tennis tournament. In fact, he was eliminated in the fourth round.

But his good looks and engaging grin won him a Paramount screen contract and a chance to fill the niche on the studio lot left vacant by another six-footer, Stirling Hayden, who deserted films to enter the Canadian Merchant Marine.

Right now Brown's busy making love to Susan Hayward and Barbara Britton in the picturization of the Broadway hit, "Out of the Frying Pan."

According to producer-director Edward H. Griffith who "discovered" Brown at the tennis tournament, the young actor is performing like a trouper in his initial screen venture.

Brown, however, takes a different view.

"My stomach seems to be full of butterflies and my knees vibrate like a Halloween noisemaker," Paramount's young hopeful said.

When he reported for duty on the "Out of the Frying Pan" set, the 197-pound actor made his camera debut by strolling across a rain-swept New York street scene.

"Scared?" asked Griffith.

"Petrified," said Brown.

"Nothing to be worried about," advised Griffith. "We're going to take this very slowly and easily. All you do is saunter up to the newsstand, see a discarded newspaper stuck in the lid of the trash can, pick it up, put it under your arm, wait for the traffic, cross the street and then stand and look in the store window."

The camera crane followed Jim Brown across the street six times before Director Griffith ordered his opening shot printed. Not because there was anything particularly the matter with the preceding shots, but just to give the newcomer self-confidence.

By the middle of the afternoon, Jim was exchanging banter with his fellow players, still a trifle shaky, but able to keep his voice at a pitch where he recognized it, at least.

'Ice-Capades' to Return to Arena In Cleveland

"Ice-Capades of 1942," returns to the Cleveland Arena, Sunday afternoon, Feb. 15, with a new and sparkling edition that will be presented throughout the week ending Feb. 22.

Boasting a company of 100 the 1942 edition presents a streamlined ballet and five women skating champions including Belita, Megan Taylor, Donna Atwood, Vera Hrubá and Lois Dworschak.

Twenty-seven acts are introduced in the revue which features a series of elaborate production numbers ranging from the funny gay nineties bit, "Bustlin' Around," to the colorful and rhythmic "Pan-America," and stirring patriotic finale.

Interspersed between these presentations will be specialty star routines that include the daring acrobatics of the Hub Trio and the spectacle of Belita, the blond skater from Britain.

Matinees will be presented both Sunday afternoons and also Saturday afternoon, Feb. 21. No night performance will be presented the closing day, Feb. 22.

SOME VEHICLES ARE TAX EXEMPT

Word was received from the federal government by the Richland county Auto club today stating that the federal auto use-tax does not apply to certain state operated vehicles.

Auto club secretary Jack Berger, quoting the statement, said

War Closes It

Sloppy Joe's bar in Havana, Cuba, well-known the world over as a tourist "must see," has been forced to close because the war has kept the tourist trade away. Closing of the famous rush rendezvous threatened to become a national political issue. One senator reportedly suggested legislation prohibiting post-war reopening of businesses which close "without urgent reasons."

that the tax does not apply to an individually owned vehicle registered and licensed by the state, and used only by the state for state purposes.

Berger said that the ruling included school buses owned by governmental subdivisions of the state.

3 Mansfield High Grads Take Course In Engineering

Three graduates of Mansfield high school will start training in chemical engineering Monday at Heidelberg college in Tiffin in order to be in a position to accept positions at the new Plum Brook Ordnance plant near Sandusky.

Glenn Rohleder, Senior high school principal, said today.

The three are Frank J. Pival and John Vesper of Senior high school and Robert M. Mutsch of St. Peter's high.

Pival, a graduate with the January, 1942 class, took Student Representative council honors in German and journalism, was a member of the National Scholastic Honor society and was awarded a place among the honorable mentions of the school scholastic honor roll.

Rohleder said that Clara Ivanich, who took top scholastic honors at the Senior high graduation, had accepted a position in the chemical department of the Ohio Brass company.

Betty Bolesky, who took second honors is now employed in a Mansfield retail firm and Arden Miller, third honors, is taking post graduate work at Senior high.

The Man WHO WILL WIN THE WAR

• In a modern war it takes 18 men behind the lines to provide supplies, equipment, and food for each soldier at the front. This war can be won or lost by the "soldiers in overalls" as well as those in khaki.

Many Erie men are in the service today. We are proud of them. We are proud of the part of Erie men at home, too, for they represent the typical American—the man who is working harder and faster than ever before, the man who does a full day's work every day—the man who will win the war by out-producing the Axis.

Production plus dependable transportation will gain the victory.

BRITISH RIP ENEMY ACROSS JOHORE STRAIT

Admit Casualties In Fortress Climb to Near 300 as Bombings Continue.

(Continued From Page 1) dive bombing and machine-gun attacks on Singapore, but the British Far East command said they caused comparatively little damage or casualties.

The sirens warning Singapore residents of the approach of Japanese planes sounded before dawn and just as day broke the British guns began booming in deep chorus. For a while the duel of cannon raged across the strait.

The Japanese planes attacked shipping in Singapore harbor. Hurricane fighters of the RAF intercepted a large formation of Japanese aircraft over Singapore and destroyed one, probably destroyed another and damaged a third, the British reported.

An oil tanker at the naval base, which was set on fire two days ago by Japanese bombing, is still burning, the British headquarters communique said.

Claim Singapore Docks Destroyed

TOKYO.—(By Official Japanese Wireless)—Japs—Japanese air attacks on Singapore harbor have destroyed all port installations in the vicinity of the King's docks, causing a large fire, imperial headquarters asserted today. A communique also claimed that a large convoy heading for Singapore was surprised and that one large ship, three medium-sized vessels and several smaller ships were bombed.

The Domei (Japanese) news agency claimed a "general offensive" was launched against Singapore yesterday in a driving rain squall.

(British authorities in London said they had no direct knowledge of any Jap mass assault on Singapore.)

Report Bombing Of Hospital Ship

MELBOURNE.—(AP)—American nurses and wounded troops arriving from the Philippines at an Australian port revealed today that Japanese planes attacked their hospital ship nine times. (The American hospital ship Mactan arrived at Sydney Jan. 31 with approximately 200 wounded from the Philippines. The Tokyo radio has claimed that the ship was allowed to sail "unmolested.")

The Americans reported that the nine raids occurred between noon and evening of a single day. One wounded soldier said: "The fighters and bombers came over like swarms of flies but all of our wounded were cheerful and said they only wished they could recover and have another crack at the Japs."

An American nurse said the bombing gave her "butterfly stomachs."

U. S. Fliers Down Jap Ships In Java

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—U. S. army planes attacked a greatly superior force of Japanese bombers and fighting planes in Java, shooting down one enemy bomber and one enemy pursuit ship, the war department announced today. One American plane is missing. The American planes were P-40 fighters, and this was the first indication that planes of this type piloted by American army fliers, had reached the Netherlands East Indies.

There was a lull in the fighting on Batan peninsula in the Philippines in the last 24 hours, the department said, with combat limited to minor patrol action.

The communique said the Philippine fighting "lacked the savage character of fighting which has been almost continuous during the past two weeks." It added that there was nothing to report from other areas.

BELL RINGERS GIVEN A JOLT

Supreme Court Upholds Ordinance Against Button Pushers.

COLUMBUS.—(AP)—A decision of the Ohio supreme court extended a bit of encouragement to housewives harassed by door bell ringers.

The court declined to disturb an ordinance of Struthers, a Youngstown suburb, which prohibits hand bill distributors from ringing door bells.

The ordinance's constitutionality was challenged by three members of Jehovah's Witnesses, who had been convicted of violating the law. The court dismissed their appeal on the ground that no debatable constitutional question was involved.

ORDERS SCHOOL HOURS SHIFTED

Superintendent Says Classes Will Start Half Hour Later Under War Time.

(Continued From Page 1) retain their present schedule opening at 8 a. m. and dismissing at 3:15 p. m. in the high school and 3:30 p. m. in the elementary schools. They will observe the new war time.

Mansfield Industries have agreed unanimously to move their clocks ahead an hour at 2 a. m. Monday, and stores, public offices, banks, and the postoffice plan to go along.

Railroads also will adopt war time, making it imperative that the postoffice do the same to avoid confusion. Mail deliveries will be at the same hour under the new time, but actually an hour earlier as time is figured by the sun.

At the Westinghouse plant where three shifts work on a virtual 24-hour day basis, the changeover will be made without confusion for there will be no early morning shift on duty at 2 a. m. Monday when the "time changes. All workers need to do is set their clocks ahead an hour before they retire Sunday night and get up and go to work at the usual hour Monday.

Loudonville

BRIEFS Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kirkham, daughter Elizabeth Ann and Mrs. Everett Rigor spent the week-end with relatives in Connorsville, Ind.

REDS RUSH TO CRIPPLE NAZIS

List 8,100 Enemy Casualties as Forces Sweep on To Balk Offensive.

This meant that the Axis counter-offensive had already rolled back within 175 miles of the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, regaining half the ground lost in the British thrust which drove Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces to El Agheila on the border of Tripolitania.

Coupled with the Axis resurgence in Libya, Moscow newspapers warned Turkey to "keep its eyes open" because Hitler "is up to something in the Balkans."

A Soviet commentator said Hitler planned to seize the Turkish-controlled Dardanelles as a gateway to the oil-rich Caucasus and the eastern Mediterranean.

Foreign military experts at Bern, Switzerland, said the Russian-German campaign had entered a critical phase which would determine how strong a spring offensive Germany could launch when the winter breaks.

These quarters said the Russians might well cripple the Germans if they could capture the key bases of Novgorod, south of Leningrad; Vyazma, on the Smolensk highway; and Orel and Kharkov, south of Moscow.

Russian war reports indicated the Red army was pressing hardest in three salients—west of Moscow toward Smolensk; in the south central front between Kursk and Kharkov; and in the Donets basin.

Indication of an eventual major operation to regain the European continent from Adolf Hitler came from Canada. In Montreal, Lieut. Gen. A. G. McNaughton, Canadian corps commander in Britain, said that staff talks among Canadian, British and United States army commanders in Britain preparatory to the possibility of an invasion of Europe now were "looked upon as a matter of routine."

The Japanese air force meanwhile bombed Rangoon twice just before dawn today. Explosions were heard in the eastern and northern section of the city. This city is 100 miles northwest of the Salween mouth.

Japs Again Attack Indies Naval Base

BATAVIA.—(AP)—For the second time in three days, Japanese planes attacked the great N. E. I. naval base at Soerabaya today.

Fires were started and some material damage was caused. The attack occurred this morning. It followed the previous Jap attack on Soerabaya, on the island of Java, Tuesday, during which the Jap raiders concentrated much of their fury on the downtown section of the city.

The Netherlands East Indies communique said the commander and part of the garrison at Balikpapan succeeded in fighting their way out through the Japanese lines to safety.

China Newspaper Criticizes British

CHUNGKING.—(AP)—The Communist organ New China Daily criticized the British today for "leaving huge manpower" in the colonies "immobilized and unutilized," declaring the battle of Burma may be decided by it.

"Defense of Burma is still possible but it all depends on whether Britain will be able to utilize Indian reinforcements, whether she will be able to immediately mobilize the Burmese to protect their fatherland and whether she will be able to effectively employ Chinese forces in Burma to fight the Japs," it said.

"This has caused extreme anxiety. If Singapore and Rangoon are lost our difficulties would be multiplied a hundred times."

James Wolf, 13, of 213 Abbeyfeale road, suffered cuts and bruises on his right knee late yesterday when he was struck by a car driven by Raymond F. Palm, 336 East Fifth street, at West Fourth and Sycamore streets. The youth was riding a bicycle.

A pedestrian, Charles Clements, 119 Lafayette avenue, received knee injuries when he was struck by a car at East Fifth and Elm streets. Glynn D. Bethea, 523 North Mulberry street, the driver, said his car skidded when he applied the brakes and he could not avoid Clements.

Mrs. Renona Brown, 39, of Mansfield R. D. 4, was treated at General hospital for mouth injuries she received in an accident on state route 39 southeast of Mansfield.

As the mercury rose slightly last night, heavy rain washed most of the ice off the streets today. Precipitation measured .68 of an inch. Colder weather was forecast for tonight. The mercury stood at 35 at noon.

SPAIN PAYS OFF DEBT TO ITALY

Franco Authorized To Send Quarter Million for Aid.

MADRID.—(AP)—The government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco paid off today for Italy's help in the Spanish civil war.

A law authorizing the Spanish minister of finance to issue and deliver to the Bank of Italy 5,000 Spanish treasury bonds to the value of 1,000,000 lire each was published in an official bulletin.

This amounts to $250,000.00. Official announcement said the payment represented "formal execution" of an agreement signed between Spain and Italy in 1940.

ADMITS GUILT IN MAIL FRAUD

'Specs' Russell, Charges Plec In Story Stealing Case.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(AP)—Giuseppe Russell, 34, former Ohio state penitentiary inmate, known as "Specs" Russell pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Harold P. Burke yesterday to using the mails to defraud several nationally-known magazines and publishers.

Russell, apprehended here by post office agents and police last year, unexpectedly entered a guilty plea as his trial was scheduled to open. Judge Burke said he would pronounce sentence Tuesday.

Russell had been specifically charged with "stealing" stories already published in magazines throughout the country and submitting them to publishers as his own original copy.

'Ice-Capades' to Return to Arena In Cleveland

"Ice-Capades of 1942" returns to the Cleveland Arena, Sunday afternoon, Feb. 15, with a new and sparkling edition that will be presented throughout the week ending Feb. 22.

Boasting a company of 100 the 1942 edition presents a streamlined ballet and five women skating champions including Belita, Megan Taylor, Donna Atwood, Vera Hrubka and Lois Dworshak.

Twenty-seven acts are introduced in the revue which features a series of elaborate production numbers ranging from the funny gay nineties hit, "Bustlin' Around," to the colorful and rhythmic "Pan-American," and stirring patriotic finale.

Interspersed between these presentations will be specialty star routines that include the daring acrobatics of the Hub Trio and the spectacle of Belita, the blond skater from Britain.

Matinees will be presented both Sunday afternoons and also Saturday afternoon, Feb. 21. No night performance will be presented the closing day, Feb. 22.

SOME VEHICLES ARE TAX EXEMPT

Word was received from the federal government by the Richland county Auto club today stating that the federal auto use-tax does not apply to certain state operated vehicles.

Auto club secretary Jack Berger, quoting the statement, said

War Closes It

Sloppy Joe's bar in Havana, Cuba, well-known the world over as a tourist "must see," has been forced to close because the war has kept the tourist trade away. Closing of the famous rush rendezvous threatened to become a national political issue. One senator reportedly suggested legislation prohibiting post-war reopening of businesses which close "without urgent reasons."

that the tax does not apply to an individually owned vehicle registered and licensed by the state, and used only by the state for state purposes.

Berger said that the ruling included school buses owned by public subdivisions of the state.

3 Mansfield High Grads Take Course In Engineering

Three graduates of Mansfield high school will start training in chemical engineering, Monday at Heidelberg college in Tiffin in order to be in a position to accept positions at the new Plum Brook ordnance plant near Sandusky. Glenn Rohleder, Senior high school principal, said today.

The three are Frank J. Pival and John Vesper of Senior high school and Robert M. Mutsch of St. Peter's high.

Pival, a graduate with the January, 1942 class, took Student Representative council honors in German and journalism, was a member of the National Scholastic Honor society and was awarded a place among the honorable mentions of the school scholastic honor roll.

Rohleder said that Clara Ivanich, who took top scholastic honors at the Senior high graduation, had accepted a position in the chemical department of the Ohio Brass company.

Betty Bolesky, who took second honors is now employed in a Mansfield retail firm and Arden Miller, third honors, is taking post graduate work at Senior high.

The Man WHO WILL WIN THE WAR

● In a modern war it takes 18 men behind the lines to provide supplies, equipment, and food for each soldier at the front. This war can be won or lost by the "soldiers in overalls" as well as those in khaki.

Many Erie men are in the service today. We are proud of them. We are proud of the part of Erie men at home, too, for they represent the typical American—the man who is working harder and faster than ever before, the man who does a full day's work every day—the man who will win the war by out-producing the Axis.

Production plus dependable transportation will gain the victory.

SCHOOL FOR DEAF DESCRIBED TO CLUB

Miss Marian Snyder, Teacher, Tells Student Club How Youngsters Are Helped to Overcome Handicap.

THE HOME of Mrs. Arthur Glatke on the Olivesburg road was the scene last evening of a meeting of the Student club. Associate hostess was Mrs. Earl Schaub. Mrs. John F. Bissman, president, conducted the business session which was followed by the program.

Guest speaker was Miss Marian Snyder, teacher at the Carpenter School for Deaf. Miss Snyder told the club about the school, which is maintained by the state for deaf children in this district. She explained that the children are boarded in private homes and that they are permitted to return to their own homes for week-ends. If the families cannot afford transportation, the school pays expenses. Three of Miss Snyder's pupils assisted her in a demonstration of methods used in helping them at the school.

Mrs. Arthur Smith presided at the table when lunch was served. Next meeting will be held Feb. 18 at the home of Mrs. J. E. Crum, 491 Davey avenue. Mrs. Keith Miller will be associate hostess and the program will be in charge of Miss Josephine Bushnell.

STUDY CLUB. Mrs. William Bruckman gave a book review at the meeting of the Little Flower Study club held Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Marie Hecht. Amazing Cough Relief, Mixed In Your Kitchen

No Trouble. No Cooking. Saves Big Dollars.

Yes, ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough medicine that is a wonder for quick results, and gives you about four times as much for your money. And it's no trouble—a child could do it.

You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugstore, and pour it into a pint bottle. Then add your syrup. There you have a full pint of really remarkable medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

And does it do the work? You'll say it beats anything you ever tried. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Finds Formula For Happy Marriage

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The girl who wrote me the following letter doesn't agree with the old-fashioned notions of her aunt, and wants me to publish her recipe for a happy marriage:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"My husband and I have been happily married for over a year, and we sometimes wonder whether we'll wake up some morning and find that our happiness was too good to be true; that it was only a dream.

"My aunt says that after marriage every girl should give up her other boy friends. She claims to have been genuinely happy, and says that she lived solely for her husband. She never went anywhere without Uncle Jim, and evening after evening she'd stay at home, sitting by the fire, waiting for his return when he went out alone.

"Now, we believe that our formula for real married happiness has been that we've never lost those interests we had before marriage. Dan likes the out-of-doors and I see that he keeps his appointments for those Sunday hikes which he always enjoyed before we were married.

"I'm terribly proud of my amateur cooking. Our Sunday night suppers are extremely popular. I prepare spaghetti or Welsh rarebit, hot biscuits with sausage filling. I have the guests help, and it helps Dan's business, too.

"Do I invite the girl and boy friends I had before I married? Well, rather! And we have the best times imaginable. My husband's interest in me would probably have faded if he had found me attractive. Certainly, I'm flattered that anyone as popular with women as my husband chose me from them all.

"Finally, I do not agree with my aunt, sweet as she is, and am writing you this because I want every young couple to be as happy as we are. I'm sure if I sat around waiting for Dan to come home, he'd soon look around for someone more peppy and entertaining. Don't you think so too?"

"SUE G."

I'm sure that Sue's aunt holds to the ideals of her generation, just as my young correspondent is true to more modern standards. The entirely proper attitude a devoted young wife may claim in keeping up with her friends would have been regarded as the wildest license in Queen Victoria's day.

Going into business has had much to do with making young women more impersonal. When they are happily married they do not expect every man who comes in for a meal to suggest an elopement. The Sunday night supper is a great institution, and I hope that these two young people may never find that their happiness has been an hallucination.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

"The Authority on Authorities"

SQUEEZES CAN BE EARLY

Ordinarily we think of a squeeze as something which comes on a late trick, when a defender is pined down to just a few cards. If he is guarding a bunch of secondary tricks, however, the pressure can sometimes be applied to him early in the play of the hand. In order to retain protection against one suit, he has to get rid of his threat to some other suit. Anything he does is wrong. If he selects one alternative, you fix him in one manner; if another, then you wreck him in another way.

After the spade J lead rode to the K, the diamond A and Q showed that East could win the fourth round of that suit and that hence only eight tricks were clearly in view. Four consecutive hearts, however, made life miserable for the defenders. East was able to toss a club on one of these and still leave himself able to guarantee the side three tricks in spades and two in clubs if those suits got led. But when the last heart was led, he was ruined.

Notice that, if East, retaining three spades, two diamonds and two clubs, discards a diamond, the declarer, who had put a spade and a diamond on hearts, could run that suit for his ninth trick. If East ditched another club, blanking his K, a club lead would either force West to drop the K with his A, then lead for three spade tricks with East winding up leading into the dummy's diamonds; or else would cause East to win with his club K and then lead either spades or diamonds to give the dummy the ninth trick.

But the only remaining choice, which East accepted, was just as bad, a spade discard. South then led that suit, giving them two tricks there and two in clubs, but the club J and diamond K then had to win, making his contract. It was a complex squeeze on the seventh trick.

Tomorrow's Problem.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"Then I mustn't keep you," he said, starting to rise, but I waved him back to his chair.

"You're not keeping me," I said. "I have to stay here for an hour or two, because my father may have an engagement for me with some old friends of his who are coming into the city."

"So I cannot possibly start for the Bronx for the next hour," I went on, "and I haven't a thing to do for—half of it, at least." I caught myself just in time to avoid giving him an intimation that I could talk to him for an hour if I wished. I knew that Bob, Ronald's harum-scarum roommate, would be telephoning me in less than an hour, and that I must get rid of Stephen Redfield and what Mrs. Ticer would term his "rabbit ears" before that time.

Asks Redfield to Stay.
"So, for half an hour," I said, "if you haven't anything better to do, why don't you stay here and gossip a bit?"

"I should love nothing better," he said in his most impressive tones. "I always feel as though I must not intrude on your time, you are so great—and busy—a lady. But I should like to ask you a question or two about Mary. You said she was very unhappy this morning. Have you any idea of the reason for her depression?"

"You would have to see Mary herself to find that out," I said. "She told me only what I said before—that she had made a fool of herself."

"I have it!" I went on suddenly with a flash of malicious insight as to how I most effectively could spur him to a new pursuit of Mary. "She probably meant what she had done to Noel by her entirely innocent, but rather conspicuous—flirtation, shall we call it?—with you."

"Mary dramatizes herself, and everybody else, as you probably know," I went on, "and I think she probably now is planning how she can make up to Noel for the distress she has caused him."

"I imagine that until her new remorse wears off, you or any other man save Noel will see very little of her. They were like a pair of newly married lovers when they went off together a little while ago."

I carefully avoided looking at Steve as I flung my bombshell. But from under my lowered lashes I saw his face crimson with rage, then to pale again.

"That must have been interesting—and amusing," he said with a light laugh. "But you may be sure I shall do nothing to cross the path of true love. I shall take particular pains not to invite Mary again to go out with me, unless some third person accompanies us. I simply can't forego her company altogether, she is so fascinating and intriguing. But I shall be very careful."

Suggests Olina.
"She is not the only fascinating and intriguing woman in your world," I reminded him.

"I know it," he said. "There's one right in the same company." "You mean," I said, and left my voice on the upward inflection.

"I mean the princess Olina," he said, and I felt that he was rolling the title under his tongue. "There's a beautiful woman who is intriguing and fascinating enough for ten," he went on, "but her mother, the queen, so hedges her around with that out-moded court etiquette of hers, that there is no getting anywhere with her."

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Feb. 6.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

WHILE there are indications of some success and fair fortune, yet there are also adverse figures telling of trouble or wrangling with the public and in intimate relations, love affairs, domestic or social contacts. These should be handled with poise, forbearance and sympathetic understanding.

Such inharmonies may be precipitated by a tendency to sly intrigues, treachery or erratic urges.

Repression and good judgment may avert much unhappiness.

If It Is Your Birthday.
Those whose birthday it is may encounter some fair good fortune, although there may be difficulties and inharmonies in all domestic, affectional and social contacts, also in public or group relations. A proclivity to suspicion, intrigue and misunderstanding may avert favorable elements.

A child born on this day may be eccentric, tricky, given to intrigue and misrepresentation.

Recipes for Dessert Cookies

Now, if ever, the cookie jar should be kept full. If you don't keep the home jar full, at least you'll want to make some different kinds of cookies to send to the boys at camp. I'll give you some rather unusual cookie recipes so you won't run out of ideas. You can use them for dessert too.

Today's Menu.

Lamb Chops
Baked Sweet Potatoes
Buttered Cabbage
Grapefruit Salad
Cookies
Tea, Coffee or Substitute

Drop Cookies.

2½ cups sifted flour
2 tps. baking powder
¾ tsp. soda
¾ cp. shortening
¾ tsp. salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cp. mashed ripe bananas
Sugar and cinnamon
1 tsp. vanilla
Use ripe bananas, you will need 2 or 3. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Beat shortening until creamy, add sugar mixture alternately with bananas, gradually, beating until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each addition until fluffy. Stir in vanilla. Add flour or a mixture of sugar and cinnamon, and bake in a moderately hot oven (400° F.) for about 12 minutes, or until done. Remove from pan at once.

Fathers Can Teach Sons Handicrafts

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

"DEAR DR. MYERS: I write you in reference to your column about a child's workshop. My son is almost five years old and very talented in handicraft work. I have been eager for him to learn manual training as early as possible, but did not know how to assemble the necessary tools, or how to begin.

"However, my problem is not concerned with my son so much as it is how to get father and son on a common ground. My husband has no use for hand work of any kind, other than dealing a deck of cards or figuring out a racing form. He is generous with his money for all of us, but not with his time, and my son is too young to enjoy his dad's sports. The two are losing so many years chance of becoming intimately acquainted with each other.

Want Dad to Join.
"Now by what miracle of miracles can Son and I get Dad to join us? Son and I have told Dad enthusiastically of our plans, and he, knowing I will be there pounding nails and planing wood, has already resigned.

"Nevertheless, Son and I want a workshop, and hope you will suggest a list of tools and beginning articles to make. It's a sensible hobby, and one which we will enjoy. A self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it is enclosed for your convenience."

The Doctor's Reply.
Here is how I answered her: "You are right. Dad should do things with his boy and spend more time with him. But don't figure on making your husband over. If, indeed, you keep harping on the matter, you will make the father grow even less interested in this workshop.

"If you prove to be handy with tools yourself, don't display your skill with too much show, else Dad will feel even more inferior in respect to handicraft.

"I have a little sympathy for Dad. He feels awkward about using tools, therefore inferior in relation to a workshop. I know this, for I am so myself, while Mrs. Myers excels in that direction. Nevertheless, both my boys made things from wood with tools very early and built up quite a workshop before they went to college. Often they spent hours and hours there making things with other boys. I learned to admire their achievements, while visiting with them.

Simple Outfit at First.
"Perhaps Dad can find many other things he'll enjoy doing with his son. Moreover you might, through some friend of his, be able to induce Dad to spend more time with his son.

"Don't begin too ambitiously. Get good tools. Begin with a hammer, saw, vice (preferably as part of workbench), screwdriver, plane and gimlet, adding later a brace and bit. For easy things to make, you will get some ideas from books on the subject, and some of the magazines for younger children. A graded list of toys and books is enclosed."

SHIP REFAINS HONOR
SEATTLE, Wash., (AP)—The wooden motorship Mount Baker, at one time a gambling barge off southern California, has entered upon a sedate and honorable old age in the interests of national defense. A shortage of ocean tonnage led to the 23-year-old ship being reconitioned for transporting lumber.

Girls With Sallow Complexions

By NME QUI VIVE

What the girl with a sallow complexion has to say about her face is nothing less than slanderous. She says it is greenery-yellow, looks as if it were sick-a-bed. She gazes upon the peaches and cream variety of the feminine map and gets even greener with envy. Life is indeed bitter. Surely there must be some way of making it sweet again!

Her friends console her, saying she has a lovely olive skin. She knows they're just kidding her. There is a difference between sallow and olive. The first is not natural or normal; the other is.

To restore natural coloring is an inside job. No bleach will have any effect upon it. The condition is caused by some disturbance of the liver, stomach or intestinal tract—a disturbance that is so slight that it may cause no physical discomfort. When jaundice is present the white of the eyes, as well as the skin, is discolored.

A famous beauty specialist suggests that every morning, the victim of the saffron complexion should drink two glasses of warm water, and to each glass should be added the juice of half a small lemon. This practice acts favorably upon the intestinal tract, is helpful in treatment of constipation. The water should be taken a half hour before breakfast.

If the victim of this beauty grief is a heavy meat-eater, she should restrict herself to one small boiled, broiled or roasted, never fried. It is just as well to slow up on tea and coffee. Never touch carrots; they have been known to make the skin yellow. Plenty of water should be taken each day—at least four glasses in addition to the two taken before breakfast.

Once a day a green salad should be included in the dinner or luncheon bill—endive, lettuce, chickory, any of the crisp leafy vegetables—served with a generous amount of olive oil and lemon juice dressing.

Buttermilk and cottage cheese are complexion clearers. It is just as well to slow up on pastries and rich sauces. Eat an apple at bedtime.

Now as to makeup: rachel powder of a tone deeper than the skin tint will prove friendly. If rouge is used it must be deep-colored, applied sparingly. Ordinarily, it is best to dispense with it.

The lipstick that is most flattering is an orange red. The wines and raspberry shades are out. The slightest blue cast will make the complexion look green. The cheek glow, if used, must be blended discreetly along the border lines with powder. The lip veneer must be nothing more than a light film.

The important matter is diet. Fruits and vegetables, after all, are the best skin bleaches, more efficient than some of the bottled goods.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

CREOMULSION
for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

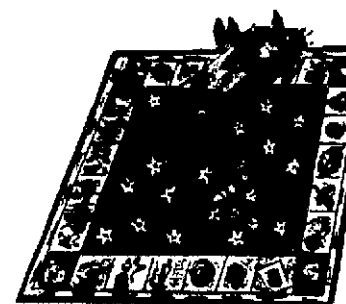

1/2 cp. sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cp. milk
1 cp. shelled pecan nuts
1 1/2 cps. flour
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tps. all-phosphate baking powder
Beat butter and sugar to a cream, add eggs well beaten, nuts, and then milk alternately with flour, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together. Beat thoroughly, and bake in greased finger roll pans. When cold, cover the tops with a white frosting into which a few extra nut meats have been stirred.

Rocks.

1 1/2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cp. butter
2 1/2 cps. flour
1 1/2 tsp. soda
1 cp. seeded raisins
1 cp. broken walnut meats

1/4 cp. hot water
1 tsp. cinnamon
Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream in thoroughly, then add beaten eggs. Dissolve soda in hot water. Sift flour, measure and sift again with salt and cinnamon. Add soda, dissolved, to creamed mixture, sprinkle some of the flour on fruit and nuts, then add flour to creamed mixture, and fruit and nuts last. Drop by teaspoons on buttered cookie sheet and bake in 350° F. oven.

CLEVELANDER HELD TO JURY

Pleads Innocent To Stabbing Charge Involving Two Galion Youths.

BUCYRUS—Entering a plea of innocent, Thomas Zaitz, alias Thomas Little, alias Tommy Zaitz of Cleveland, was placed under $3,000 bond Wednesday when arraigned before Mayor William F. Whiteamire on a charge of stabbing with intent to wound. He was bound over to the Crawford county grand jury.

Zaitz was taken into custody in Cleveland Tuesday upon complaint of local officers and was returned to Buckyrus in connection with the stabbing early Saturday morning of two Galion youths in a house on Railroad street.

Zaitz was represented by Attorney William Beer, Jr., at the hearing.

The first to announce a candidacy subject to the 1942 county primaries, County Commissioner Clarence Oberlander today made known his intention of being a candidate for reelection.

Oberlander, former Lykens township farmer, moved to Buckyrus 32 years ago and since has followed the road building business. He lives at 133 West Irving street.

The first farm tenant loan to be made in Crawford county was issued today to George E. Ruth of Tiro for the purchase of a farm in Sandusky township. The tenant purchase program which operates under the Farm Security administration has been in operation in Ohio since 1937. Investigations looking forward to adopting the program here have been in progress since July last year.

Those Registered Not Required To Repeat, Boards Say

Whole Richland county draft boards went ahead today with preparations for the third registration of men for military service Feb. 14, 15, and 16, Lieut. Col. Chester W. Goble, head of the state draft set-up, emphasized that men who are already registered need not register again.

All men who have reached their 20th birthday and have not reached their 45th birthday and have not registered at either of the two previous registrations must sign up with Uncle Sam this month.

To avoid any interruption of war production, some registration places will be open during the afternoons of Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 14 and 15. The nationwide registration will be on the following Monday when registrations will be received all day. The three county draft boards are setting up a number of registration places throughout the county and assigning volunteer workers to have charge of them.

Plaintiff In Accident Case
Files Amended Petition.

Daniel Ferguson, plaintiff in a $10,000 personal damage suit against Wilbur J. Pettit, today filed an amended petition in common pleas court for a judgment covering injuries he received in a traffic accident last Aug. 17 near Upper Sandusky.

Ferguson claims that his vision has been impaired as a result of his injuries and he is unable to work. He was riding as a guest in the defendant's car when he was injured.

He accuses Pettit of negligence in allegedly permitting the brakes on his car to become defective. The car overturned and rolled down an embankment when the brakes were applied suddenly, the petition states.

GEN. JOHNSON: U. S. Sets Up Curfew Zones for Aliens

By HUGH S. JOHNSON
WASHINGTON—It is rare to pick up a paper these days and not find a biographical or character sketch about my classmate Douglas MacArthur. Since he is just now about the most luminous figure on the globe that is easily understood. Everybody wants to know what manner of man he is.

Because he is a most unusual type and time for research is so short, the danger to Mac is that he will be made into a myth—a paragon of perfection to which no man can aspire in daily living.

Weeks ago, this column tried a very short profile but confined itself to a guess from his character and personal knowledge of the ground as to how he would conduct the retreat from Lingayan and the defense of Bataan—a guess of which the very last verse is yet to be written, but which was otherwise 100 per cent accurate.

You can't be brought up from boyhood with a man under old West Point conditions and believe he is any myth or not understand him as well as you would your brother.

More than one battle and at least one campaign (the march through Georgia) was decided by the knowledge by one commander of just what the other would do in a given set of circumstances—knowledge gleaned from the cheek-by-jowl living among a few score cadets at the academy and in service afterward.

For example Sherman (for one of his staff) knew that the way to Savannah was open, because the headlong Hood would surely strike at his communications, and wear himself out against the rock-bound Thomas.

No, MacArthur is no Admirable perhuman, he is as companionable a comrade as a man could wish—affectionate, generous, considerate and kind. He does have certain qualities in the superlative. He was simply born without the emotion of fear. He does not lose his head in making decisions under any excitement. He has far better than a good mental equipment.

By itself it is not genius but when you add to it a fourth superlative quality it amounts to the same thing. That fourth quality is a passion for perfection in everything he does. For this he will make any sacrifice of time and effort.

He has one great weakness. He has the instinct of a great actor for the limelight. When he gets it he is not unlikely to pose. He deserves it now as highly as any hero in history, but even when he doesn't, he is apt to use words appropriate to that glare and sometimes they could make him look a little silly.

Perhaps the only record by Robert E. Lee of departure from icy conversational propriety was when somebody showed him the order of the bombastic federal General Pope, coming from the west to retrieve the disasters of the army of the Potomac.

It assured his soldiers that he was accustomed to seeing only the backs of his enemies and, in derision of precedent commanders, was cautioned "headquarters in the saddle." Lee's comment was "quicker place for a general's headquarters."

SENATOR URGES FURTHER HELP FOR RUSSIANS

GOP, Dems Join In Effort To Speed Half Billion Loan To China.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—Increased deliveries of military supplies to Russia were urged today by Senator Pepper D-Fla as Republicans joined with Democrats in seeking to expedite final congressional approval of a measure extending $500,000,000 in financial aid to China.

Voicing approval of the proposed China loan, Pepper told reporters that this country also ought to do everything it could to speed up the transfer of war materials to Russia so the Soviets would be as well prepared as possible for the promised Nazi spring offensive.

The Florida senator said he did not doubt that the necessity of rushing reinforcements to the southwestern Pacific had interfered with the schedule of deliveries to Russia, causing the lag which has created considerable concern in some quarters here.

Pepper declared that this deficiency in shipments should be remedied as speedily as possible.

While the matter of Soviet supplies was to the fore in discussions, the senate foreign relations committee arranged to hear six government officials today on the need for the Chinese loan. Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said that once the committee recommended passage of the measure, he would ask the senate to consider it immediately. Republican Leader McNary of Oregon said he had no personal objection to waiving the senate rule requiring that all bills lay over a day after committee action.

The measure would authorize the secretary of treasury, with approval of the president, to make up to $500,000,000 in credits available to the Chungking Chinese government.

Awaiting committee action on the bill, the senate arranged to act finally on a $26,495,265,474 naval supply bill. Approved yesterday by the house, the record-breaking appropriations bill would be sent to President Roosevelt on senate adoption of a conference report.

Leaders meanwhile sought house action on a senate-approved measure authorizing the planting of 75,000 acres of western hemisphere land to guayule, rubber bearing plant.

AN EIGHT-MINUTE VISIT WITH SON, PHILIP S. CARROLL, JR., OF THE U. S. NAVY, WAS ENJOYED TUESDAY BY MR. AND MRS. PHILIP S. CARROLL, SR., 77 WEST SECOND STREET, WHILE THE TRAIN ON WHICH THE NAVY MAN WAS BOUND FOR THE WEST COAST STOPPED AT WILLARD. YOUNG CARROLL HAD NOTIFIED HIS PARENTS OF THE 11:36 A. M. STOP AND THEY, TOGETHER WITH MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH ZEIGLER OF MANSFIELD, WERE ON HAND TO GREET HIM.

CARROLL, WHO ENLISTED IN THE NAVY WITH HIS BROTHER, THOMAS, LAST MAY, HAS BEEN STATIONED AT FLOYD BENNETT AIRFIELD. HE IS NOW ON ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO. THOMAS IS STATIONED AT PEARL HARBOR.

When 50, or more, Girl Scouts finish the two first aid courses now under way, Mansfield's Girl Scouting organization will have approximately 100 members trained to give beginners' first aid. Other training classes which are equipping the Scouts in child care and nutrition, under the new Scout defense training program, will also turn out close to half a hundred Scouts. These classes are just the beginning of Scout defense service as the girls are now registering for volunteer aid in every line of the duty they are equipped to perform and about 100 registrations have already been received.

City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner, although only in office a little more than a month, has had many technical rulings and explanations to make. The most unusual, however, was asked Tuesday night when Wagner took five minutes to explain to council the legal meaning of "more or less." Councilmen were purchasing about a half acre of land near the Maxwell Springs pumping station and noticing the inclusion of the words "a half acre more or less" asked Wagner to tell them if they were getting more than a half acre or less. Wagner explained that most deeds listed boundaries which ran to the middle of highways, making actual farmland "more or less" the stipulated amount.

The slender blond youth said the elders of his meeting (Congregation) told him he must live up to his convictions, whatever they were.

Frank Collopy, Hall's counsel, told the court the youth's family had taught him two basic beliefs—that he must not bear malice against anyone nor engage in war, and that he must follow absolutely the dictates of his own conscience.

"I appreciate that the judge tried to do all he could but I didn't feel I could accept (the chance to register)," Hall said.

For the past several days postal employees have been walking around the mailing room and offices carefully avoiding a maze of ladders and other painting paraphernalia, but today they had the added confusion of being unable to avoid heavy paint fumes emanating from the walls as well as the ceiling. Postmaster H. E. Homberger and other officials said that they were "almost groggy" with the fumes since the painters had invaded the offices.

CLAMPS DOWN WEST COAST RESTRICTIONS

Justice Department Bars Foreign Peoples From Vital Areas, Limits Their Travel.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO—Federal authorities tightened restrictions on enemy aliens today by curtailing their movements in California and barring them from defense areas in Oregon and Washington.

Establishment of "curfew zones" along nearly two-thirds of California's coastline and at some inland points threatened aliens in night jobs with unemployment and struck at the pocketbooks of theater, tavern and restaurant operators and other amusement industries in alien districts of coastal cities.

Within those areas, enemy aliens may not leave their homes between 8 p. m. and 6 a. m. and may not travel more than five miles from their homes. The curfew zones were designated in addition to 97 California areas from which aliens will be barred completely.

A justice department order issued last night will bar aliens from 31 vital areas in Washington and Oregon, including eight square miles around the Grand Coulee dam, a strip on both sides of the Columbia river near the Bonneville dam and areas around the Diablo and Ruby dams on the Skagit river and the Long lakes hydroelectric plant on the Spokane river.

Authorities said they could not estimate how many aliens would be driven from homes by last night's order, but they believed there would be only a few. More than half of the 186,000 Japanese, German and Italian aliens in the eight states of the western defense command live in California.

The curfew zones in California include vital defense works and fertile farm lands of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. Warned in a radio talk that Japanese residents of the state had tried to aid the enemy by communicating information and had shown indication of preparing for fifth column activity and because of this it was "absolutely necessary that comprehensive and effective measures be taken for security against possible sabotage."

Radioman Praised For Saving Lives Of Ship Survivors

LEWES, Del. (AP)—Survivors of the torpedoed United Fruit company freighter San Gil, were lavish in their praise today of Radioman Robert L. Thorp, a veteran of 24 years at sea.

The San Gil was sunk Tuesday midnight off the coast of Maryland, the navy revealed officially. Forty members of the crew were saved but two were killed by the impact of the first torpedo.

The survivors agreed that Thorp was responsible for their rescue. He set up a temporary antenna after his permanent one had crashed and succeeded in sending out distress calls.

Captain Walter L. Koch, master of the San Gil said the submarine sank his ship with two torpedoes and also fired fifteen shells from two deck guns.

"All I can say for the submarine commander is that he didn't sink the two life boats which we got off safely," Captain Koch said, "otherwise he didn't give us a chance."

THEY'LL HELP

15 Chinese Agreed To Aid Members of Race in Draft Registry.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Because they wanted to help sign up members of their race for selective service, 15 Chinese leaders have been sworn in as draft registrars in a downtown district.

The Chinese registrars will help any individuals whose English may not be up to par, and prevent any difficulties over differences in Chinese calendar dates.

PLAN TO OPEN NIGHT COURSES AT SENIOR HIGH

J. A. C., Merchants and School Board To Offer Classes In Distributive Education.

Night courses in any phase of distributive education in which adults employed by Mansfield merchants are willing to enroll will be offered at Senior High school during the coming year under plans being formulated jointly by the Junior Association of Commerce, the Mansfield Retail Merchants association and the board of education.

J. C. Stout, coordinator for distributive education courses in the city, today said such course would be sponsored with state and federal government funds.

If worked out, the classes will guide clerks in their study of selling techniques, give tips in merchandizing or explain latest methods of bookkeeping.

"Of course, we don't know exactly what these courses will consist of yet," Stout said, "but through the JAC and the Merchants association I hope to determine the types of training needed to help Mansfield merchandizing and then provide them."

"For example," he continued, "if we find that there is a group of 20 persons who would like further training in grocery handling and selling, we'll form such a course and conduct it using the facilities at Senior High school."

The only restrictions on the nature of the courses are that they must constitute a phase of business in which the pupil will come in contact with the public.

The courses are to supplement work already under way among pupils at Senior high school.

These courses train pupils in school class rooms in the morning and give them practical experience in Mansfield retail outlets in the afternoons.

BALANCE HIGHER

Richland county started this month with a general fund balance of $40,029, or $15,000 more than the Jan. 1 balance. Auditor Norman L. Wolfe's financial report showed today.

The county spent $22,073 from the general fund during January and received $36,954. The relief fund balance dropped from $7,928 on Jan. 1 to $3,710 Feb. 1. There was only $28.58 in the road and bridge fund at the beginning of this month.

There are about 35,000 barbers in New York City.

LIBERTY SHIPS ARE NOT UGLY

That's the Word of the U. S. Maritime Commission as Five Are Launched.

(By United Press)
PORTLAND, Ore.—President Roosevelt's early designation of the Oregon shipbuilding corporation's Liberty liners as "ugly ducklings" has all been changed with the launching of five ships at the company's yards.

The Liberty vessels have been well-designed, are good looking and boast the most modern sanitation facilities.

The U. S. maritime commission has termed the ships as of trim sea going appearance. Bidding low in the water, with its long slender prow and its simple straight-lined superstructure, it will knife its way through the waves as gracefully as any vessel afloat, engineers of the commission say.

"The rapidity with which the Liberty ships are being built in no sense implies sacrifice in efficiency or seaworthiness," engineers say.

The Liberty ship's normal complement of 44 officers and crew will have more modern, clean and comfortable quarters than any ship being constructed, they said.

The estimated cost of a Liberty ship is $1,500,000, exclusive of contractors' fees which range from $60,000 to $140,000, they said.

The ship is a medium-sized deepsea freighter, 441 feet long, having a beam of 57 feet, loaded draft of 27 feet 8 inches, displacement of 14,100 tons, deadweight of 7,500 tons, and cargo capacity of 9,146 tons, five holds, two decks, 2,500 horsepower, speed of 10 to 11 knots.

DELEGATES NAMED

CLEVELAND PLANS NEW OPERA SEASON; AGENCY SET UP HERE

The Metropolitan Opera company's annual spring festival in Cleveland this year is assured by the Northern Ohio Opera association which has signed a five-year contract for annual seasons in the Cleveland Public auditorium through 1946.

Sale of tickets for the 1942 season, April 6-11, when eight operas will be presented in six days, will again be handled in Mansfield by the W. E. Jones

Piano House, 146 Park avenue west. The local representative has been informed by the Northern Ohio Opera association that subscriptions already total $14,000.

Officials of the association are now in New York conferring with the Metropolitan regarding the repertoire and casts for the coming Cleveland season.

Special care is being exercised to present an interesting combination of operas for the four performances on Friday and Saturday when the majority of out-of-town opera patrons find it most convenient to attend.

The current opera season is underwritten by nearly 400 men and women of Northern Ohio and the contract provides that the Metropolitan Opera will not play a season in any city within 400 miles of Cleveland.

Approximately 400 opera-goers from the Mansfield and Richland area, including numerous musical organizations, patronized the opera last year.

OSR RECEIVES 22 PER CENT FEWER INMATES

Annual Report For '41 Shows
Average Age of Prisoners
Just Over 20 Years.

A drop in the number of inmates received at the Ohio State reformatory during 1941 of 22 per cent was noted by Superintendent Arthur L. Glatke in his annual report to Charles L. Sherwood, director of public welfare in Ohio.

This enrollment drop is in line with an all time low in total prison population of 2,369 announced last week.

During 1941 the number of prisoners received was 913 as compared with 1,170 in 1940.

Of those received the average age was 20.3 years old, 73 per cent were Protestants, 23 per cent Catholics and one per cent other beliefs.

Educationally, the largest group of those received had received only an elementary school education. Eight of them were illiterate, 79 could only read and write, 459 attended elementary school, 348 high school and 19 had been to college.

Twenty-five per cent of those admitted were suffering from or had had a venereal disease and were treated in the prison hospital.

Ohio was the birth place of 63 per cent of them while other states accounted for 36 per cent and a scant one per cent were foreign born.

Although 54 per cent or 497 will serve their first terms, 220 of the 913 new prisoners had served terms at the Boys' Industrial school, 143 in out-of-state institutions and 53 had served other terms at the reformatory.

Twenty-eight per cent of those received were colored, a rise of three per cent over 1940.

The report also showed that of the total prison population, 60 per cent were sent from counties having large metropolitan centers, notably, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Akron and Toledo.

Physical improvements to the prison itself were the screening of cell block windows, remodeling of an apple storage depot and the cleaning and deepening of two water wells, the report showed.

Faced with a shortage of water last year, the prison board authorized the cleaning and deepening of two of the nine wells serving the prisoners. Both wells were formerly 165 feet deep but now one has been dropped to 407 feet and the other to 275 feet.

Increased flows from the two repaired have made it possible to cap the seven other fons.

Burglary, burglary and larceny, breaking and entering and grand larceny accounted for 989 of the total population at O. S. R.; robbery and assault to rob, 847; and auto stealing or driving an auto without the consent of the owners, 304. These eight crimes sent 80 per cent of the inmates to the prison although 76 other crimes are represented.

Aside from the statistics concerning the prisoners, Glatke said that the value of farm products grown on the institution grounds had risen from $85,234.02 in 1940 to $131,630 in 1941.

Reason given for this value hike was that last year the prison dairy herd had been depleted in a fight against a cow disease and had been returned to normal this year.

Canned were 41,453 gallons of foodstuffs including tomatoes, applesauce and sauerkraut.

CHURCH SERVICE TO BE FIRST OF SCOUT WEEK'S ACTIVITIES

Although nation-wide observance of Boy Scout week, Feb. 6-13, begins Friday, Mansfield Scouts will open their observances at 7:30 p. m. Sunday by attending a special worship service at the First Lutheran church in a body. Rev. G. E. Swoyer, pastor, will speak on the topic "Sunsets and God."

All troops in the Johnny Applesseed Area Council will hold special meetings on Scouting during Boy Scout week. In Mansfield, troop No. 5, under Scoutmaster Glenn Pore will stage a "parent's night" celebration at Hedges school. Troop No. 11 under Clifford Hartnett will also hold a similar event, including a parents' dinner and movies shown by Charles Kimmel, area commissioner.

Other Mansfield troops are planning similar activities. Special meetings held during Scout week throughout the county include two district rallies, one at Ashland on Feb. 10, and one at Shelby on Feb. 11. Plymouth Scouts will hold a court of honor Feb. 8, at which various awards will be made for Scouting progress achieved within the last few months.

SECOND NURSE CLASS FORMED

Group Meets Weekly at John Simpson Junior High.

The second class in home nursing organized this week by Richard county chapter of the Red Cross began its training Tuesday night at John Simpson Junior high school.

Mrs. Irma Mitchell is in charge of the group of 20 which convenes each Tuesday at 7 p. m. at the school. The first class of 20 members opened its 20-hour course Monday afternoon with Mrs. Warren Fort as instructor.

Applications for a Nurses' Aid course will be taken today at 4:30 p. m. at the Red Cross executive offices, according to Mrs. George Draffan, committee chairman.

The first American warship regularly commissioned by George Washington on Sept. 2, 1775 was the schooner Hannah, manned and fitted at Marblehead, Mass.

SOLDIERS WILL SEE MANSFIELD ENTERTAINERS

Big Cast From City To Go To Columbus Tomorrow For Ft. Hayes Performance.

A two-hour show in which some of Mansfield's best known amateur entertainers will participate will be presented at 8 p. m. Friday for the soldiers and officers stationed at Fort Hayes in Columbus.

Sponsored by the Mansfield Citizenship club, the entertainment will be the first of its kind attempted by a Mansfield group since the nation's new army was called into service.

The citizenship club, recently organized, has about 250 members who are students attending the citizenship classes of the W. P. A. adult education program in the county.

Most of the acts in Friday night's show will be provided by music and dance studios in Mansfield. Two American Legion members, James Browncombe and John Grabler, also will be on the program as well as Miss Charlotte Lamberton, the deaf dancing star who has been visiting with relatives in Mansfield. Browncombe will be master of ceremonies.

Participating in the program will be pupils of the Eugene Smart studio, Marty Hogan's studio, Marguerite Speas studio, Herrick studio and The Studio, directed by Miss Ethyl Battin.

Among the younger entertainers who will present singing, dancing and instrumental numbers are: Mary and Jack Berger, dancers; Elaine Orosan, vocal numbers; Betty Wynn, song and dance number; Marcine Zimmerman, vocal numbers; Beverly Price, singing and dancing; Thelma Accordonettes; Charles Darfus, vocal selections; Shirley Lay, baton twirling; Richard DiSanzo, violinist; Roy Vetrano, vocal numbers; Anita King, acrobatic dance; Jane Hodges, vocal numbers; Nina Jean Stash, Joan Poth and Dorothy Hartson, tap dancing; Jean Mosberg and Tony Taltello, jitterbug numbers; Jane Wise, singing and dancing; June Imhoff, dance number; Helen Sampel, accordionist; Ethyl Battin, ballet numbers; Doris Berno, Georgia Reynolds and Ralph Whipp, dancers; Maxine Murray, whistler and Dolores Wise, dance numbers.

Accompanists for the group will be Mrs. M. Mowrey, Alice Mitchell, Mrs. George Gump, and Ed Stanton.

The program was arranged by Ross Sciarrotta, supervisor of adult education in the county, who said the entertainers may go to Fort Knox, Ky., to give a show if the one in Columbus is a success.

LOS ANGELES FIGHTS RATS

Health Authorities Act To Prevent Rodents From Spreading Disease.

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES—Steps to prevent a greatly increased rat population from spreading disease in the Southern California area are now being planned by Los Angeles health authorities working in co-operation with the Works Progress Administration.

Dr. Wilton L. Halverson, county health officer, said the plan to eliminate the rodents was undertaken when it was discovered that not only rats but ground squirrels, both potential carriers of infection, had increased their number to almost dangerous proportions in this sector of the state.

To insure uninterrupted defense production and prevent recurrence of any such epidemic as occurred in Los Angeles 15 years ago when typhus fever took 24 lives, a laboratory analysis of rodent specimens has been started as a city and county sponsored project of the WPA.

"Spread of bubonic plague and typhus fever in war-scarred Europe has brought increased efforts to prevent rats bringing these dread diseases into American seaports," Dr. Halverson declared.

"While spread of infection to Los Angeles in such a manner is not probable, nevertheless the time to protect this important defense area against such a possibility is right now.

"Our field workers report there are more rodents in the county now than there has been for years. Just why, we don't yet know, but we intend to take every possible precaution against them causing any trouble."

Officials of the WPA announced that 30 trained workers have been assigned to the rodent-extermination project to assist health authorities in their laboratory and field work.

The WPA workers will be assigned to ascertain the presence of rats and determine the areas in which plague-positive rodents are present.

GIRLS AT HOME NEEDN'T WORRY AT COMPETITION

Those Romantic Photographs From Hawaii Are 'Just a Pose,' Gals.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

HONOLULU—"The girl he left behind" needn't worry about romantic competition from the dark-eyed damsels in far-away Hawaii. Let no girl in Keokuk or Kalamazoo, or anywhere else on the mainland, shed a tear or experience even a twinge of jealousy, should the mailman arrive with a picture of "the boy friend" in an intimate pose with a grass-skirted lassie of Oahu.

In downtown Honolulu, whose streets are thronged with U. S. sailors and soldiers in uniform, this correspondent today came upon a new and thriving business. It is an open air picture studio, featuring two stunning young women who gladly, almost rapturously, pose for pictures with the gobs and buck privates for a modest sum.

The place was so crowded we almost had to fight our way in. There, on a sprinkling of sand at the entrance of a straw hut, sat what looked to us to be a Hawaiian princess. She had coal black hair, sloe eyes, flashing white teeth and dark skin. She wore a hula skirt and a lei around her neck. Her sun-tanned arms and midriff were bare and she was sans shoes and stockings. She was posing for the camera, cheek to cheek with a gop, their arms encircling each other in a most romantic fashion. As the camera clicked, the pose ended, her radiant smile vanished and she arose abruptly and glanced around for a new customer.

Ah, girls back home—this may be "rattling" on some of our pals in far-off Honolulu, but the truth is the "princess" is a married woman who simply adores her husband and three charming children.

She is Elizabeth Perrels Shinn, 24, a smart and attractive Hawaiian girl graduate of the Sacred Heart high school in Honolulu. Her husband, William E. Shinn, an ex-American soldier, formerly of Tarboro, N. C., runs the picture studio. They were married six years ago and have three daughters, aged five, three and one.

Another, and younger, girl divides with Mrs. Shinn the job of posing with the service men. She is Miss Jane Elizabeth Vindinhar, aged 17, and she's "the girl on the beach."

Now, the studio is miles from famed Waikiki beach but you could never tell it from the picture.

Miss Vindinhar has a Lana Turner figure. She wears a white sweater, maroon slacks and sandals. She is the dark, Latin type and she, too, can turn on and off a dazzling smile that would do all right in any tooth paste ad.

The boss of the place, Mr. Shinn, takes the pictures. He estimates he takes 600 photographs a day. He charges the boys a quarter when they are photographed alone and fifty cents when one of the girls sits in. Life is a lot different with Shinn now than when he used to play the saxophone in the thirty-fifth infantry band. The spent eleven years in the army.

"Thousands of these 'romantic' pictures will soon reach the U. S. mainland. Some very nice girls back home no doubt will break into tears or fly into a rage when they take a gander at the beautiful Mrs. Shinn or the equally beautiful Miss Vindinhar—but they won't if they read this story."

As a matter of fact, the romantic precedents of the young men serving their country in

'Defense Dance' Being Arranged By Union Group

Plans for a "Defense Dance" to be held for members of the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine workers union, Local 711, were advanced today by a four-man committee headed by Ray Laughman.

Scheduled for Feb. 21 at 9 p. m. in the auditorium of the Westinghouse the affair will be open to union members with a pack of cigars as the admission price. The smokers will be given men now in the armed service.

Laughman said he was contacting C. D. Handley, manager of the Mansfield bureau of the Ohio Employment service, and parents of service men to determine their present addresses so that he may forward the smokers to them.

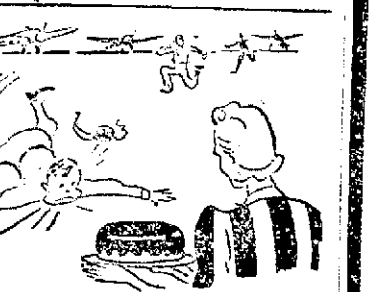

Other members of the committee are George Meyer, Ross Zedler and Carl Phillips.

Hawaii are few and far between, if not non-existent. Soldiers and sailors haven't seen a hula dance since the war began. All night life is "out." The cut-off for the nightly blackout is 6 p. m. and at this hour all Hawaiian girls, like other girls, are home helping with the dishes or listening to the radio.

Social activity, under martial law, is confined to the daytime. A "no liquor" law being in effect, most of our young service men must necessarily confine their social shenanigans to a drug store, a lunch counter or a whiff with a pretty waitress or a whirl at the pin ball machines.

So, girls back home, take it easy. Don't worry. And don't believe everything you see—even pictures of girls in shredded skirts.

Uncertain Destiny + + + + +

CHAPTER XXVI

"Your father can get another rider," Linda said severely, "but think how proud he'll be—a grandfather!"

"And you'll be Aunt Linda," Mary said blissfully.

Aunt Linda. The color fled from Linda's face. Her eyes were tragic, as she thought, "By next summer I'll be only a memory in the Baridon family. I'll never see them again, never know Mary's youngster or share the thrill of having a grandchild in the family."

Abruptly she rose. "It's getting late. Perhaps we'd better be getting back to the farm now."

They rode slowly, lazily, still discussing the coming event, but for Linda some of the pleasure was gone, and as they rounded the drive in the direction of the stables, Steve's cream-colored roadster flashed up the drive, stopped before the door, and Brenda Coleman stepped out!

The little party on horseback stared at her silently, and Mary whispered bitterly, "That girl! How dared Steve bring her here!"

Linda looked reproachfully at Steve. Why had he brought Brenda to their home, when only a few weeks before the other girl had called it a broken-down farm? Then Linda remembered. Soon she would be gone and Brenda would be the hostess. It was only natural that Steve should bring his future wife to view their country home.

With that thought in mind, Linda slipped from her horse and approached the blond model.

"Welcome to Hillsacres, Brenda," she said sweetly. "Isn't this your first visit to the farm?"

"Brenda became quite an outdoor lover while she was in Nevada," Steve said, "and she asked me to bring her out to look us over."

"Outdoor lover—nothing!" Mary hissed, and Linda silenced her with a glance. As Steve escorted Brenda toward the stables, Linda's eyes followed him longingly. It was the first time they had come face to face in days. She had been taken back by the weariness in his face, the dejected sag of his broad shoulders.

"If she's an outdoor girl, then I'm a glamour gal," Mary muttered angrily as they walked up to the house. "Did you see how she was dressed?"

In contrast to their well-fitting jodhpurs and shining leather boots, Brenda wore a softly draped frock of turquoise blue and a wide blue hat. She might have been on her way to a fashionable garden party.

Once they were inside the living-room, Mary gave vent to her outraged feelings.

"How can Steve be taken in by that—cheap little hussy! That—that—"

"Hey, take it easy," Philip admonished his sputtering wife. "After all you aren't supposed to know a thing about this."

"Oh, Linda—I do know, and I'm so terribly sorry," Mary caught Linda's hand sympathetically. "Philip and I have known for weeks that something was wrong. I can't seem to get next to Steve, though goodness knows I've tried!"

"You've talked to Steve?" Linda was astonished.

Mary nodded unhappily. "Both of us. He shuts up like a clam whenever we mention Brenda. Oh, if there were only something we could do to straighten things out. It doesn't seem fair that we should be so happy when—when all the time, you and Steve—"

Mary lapsed into embarrassed silence, and a pall seemed to drop over the little group.

"I can't help feeling it's an act," Phil said finally. "I've gotten to know Steve pretty well, and it isn't like him to fall for Brenda after the dirty trick she played on him."

"Did I hear my name mentioned?" Brenda was standing in the doorway, her lovely face a mask. If she had heard Philip's words, she gave no sign.

"I was just saying we've got to get back to town," Phil said quickly, and seeing Steve appear behind Brenda, he went on smoothly: "By the way, Steve, there's no use putting you out when we can take Brenda into town."

Brenda's eyes flashed angrily, and Linda was conscious of sudden panic. This was a move she had not anticipated. What would she say to Steve if they were left alone together for the first time since the breach in their relations. What could she say?

"What a marvelous idea, darling!" Mary waxed enthusiastic. Her eyes were mischievous. "It's been so long since Brenda and I had a really cozy chat, and I'm dying to know about her trip west."

Linda watched unamused as the conniving couple bundled Brenda between them in the car, and, waving good-bye, she stole a glance at Steve's profile. It was set in grim lines, and Linda thought, unhappily, "He wanted to take Brenda back himself, so they could be together."

The car was started. Mary called a final farewell, a satisfied smile on her face, and then they were gone.

"As if that could solve the whole mess," Linda told herself wearily, "instead of prolonging the renunciation scene once more."

With hardly a glance in her direction, Steve turned stiffly and entered the library. Linda stared after him with a heavy heart. "What's the use," she told herself bitterly, "in dragging things out any longer? Why not get it over now, once and for all!"

Abruptly she turned and followed Steve, standing resolutely before him as he sat at the desk—the desk where they had labored so long and hard together.

"Steve?"

"Yes?" He lifted his dark, touselled head to survey her with narrowed blue eyes, eyes devoid of any humor and affection.

"There's something I must say to you—now." She was praying for strength to say the dreaded words.

"Shoot." He grinned suddenly, and the unexpected smile disturbed Linda. If only he wouldn't look so handsome, she thought wildly. So expectant.

Then, seeing her face, a quick concern flashed over Steve's features. "Is something wrong?"

"Everything is wrong," she cried impulsively. "It's been wrong from the beginning, Steve. We made a mistake. A bad mistake."

"You're referring to our marriage, I presume?"

"Of course. The time for evading issues is past. There's too much at stake."

"I thought we'd done very well, Linda."

"Oh, you've been wonderful to me." She spread her hands in a gesture of helplessness. "But why prolong it when you—when we're both miserably unhappy?"

Hurt and angry, Steve said: "I—guess you're right, Linda. Would you like a divorce?"

She caught her breath swiftly. "Yes."

Steve glanced at the small desk calendar. "Aren't we rushing things a little? We've still nearly two months left, according to our agreement."

"I'm perfectly willing to comply with our agreement," Linda answered, "but I wanted you to know I—I—" She turned her face away, striving to keep back tears.

"What will you do then?" he persisted. His eyes were tortured, but Linda was unaware of his misery.

"I—I'm going back home for awhile."

"And then—Greg?" he demanded grimly.

Linda hesitated. "Yes," she lied.

Steve rose wearily. "I'll start arrangements the first thing tomorrow. Naturally it will take several weeks to get things in order."

"I don't understand," Linda was puzzled. "Now that we have

Keeping an Eye on the Navy's Pacific Patrol Force

This picture was made from a dive bomber somewhere on the Pacific during an offensive patrol. These craft are grimly seeking out Axis vessels and undersea craft. The ships of the patrol force are shown executing a turn in the water far below, while the bombers keep an alert and watchful eye from above. They have begun work in earnest to repay Japan with interest for her sneak raid on Pearl Harbor.

Cleveland Grotto Circus Features Wild Animal Acts

Ice and snow may pave the way to the Cleveland Public Auditorium but indoors the elephants, wild animals, clowns and bareback riders are holding sway at the 13th annual Grotto Circus.

More than 100 acts are featured in the spectacle that will show through Saturday, Feb. 14, including Terrell Jacobs and his famous collection of 32 lions and tigers. Jacobs and his wife have appeared in command performances before King George and Queen Elizabeth in Great Britain and the royal family of King Leopold in Belgium.

An aerial ballet of 100 performers is another chief attraction and the highlights include Ray Goody, who captivated audiences last year with his "slide for life," in which he executes a backwards slide from a height of over 100 feet on a taut wire.

Other acts include Emil Pallenberg and his bears; Reynolds and Donegan, skaters; the Kimms Trio, Dorrance and Reynolds, high perch act, and the "Great" Gregoresko, the "Man Who Hangs Himself."

The circus, according to George Hoffman, A1 Srat Grotto monarch, will admit free all men wearing the uniform of the armed forces.

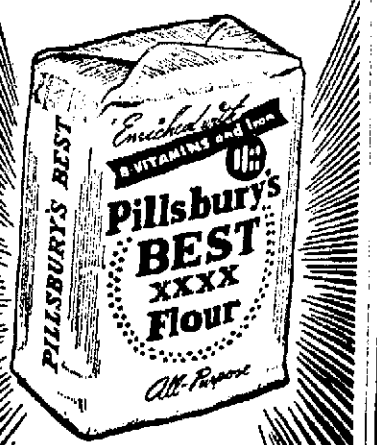

The average production record in the larger Hollywood studios is three minutes of finished film in an eight hour day.

How to make Pillsbury's Crown-of-Cherries Dessert

Complete recipe:

1. Combine 2 cups cornstarch and 2 cups sugar; add 1 c. cherry juice; gradually cook until thick and clear. Pour this glaze into a well-greased 8 in. layer pan. 2. Arrange 2 c. (No. 2) can your pitted cherries, well drained, on plate to cover bottom of pan. 3. Sift and measure 1 1/2 c. Enriched Pillsbury's Best Flour, 1/2 lb. Butter and 1/2 lb. Sugar. Add 1/2 c. milk and 1/2 c. vanilla. Mix well after each addition; beat until light. 4. Add dry ingredients alternately with combined 3 c. milk and 1/2 c. vanilla mix well after each addition; beat until light. 5. Add 2 eggs, well beaten; mix well. 6. Add dry ingredients alternately with combined 3 c. milk and 1/2 c. vanilla mix well after each addition; beat until light. (That fluffy lightness is typical of batter made with Pillsbury's Best. This superb flour is made from the finest wheat and is made in a special way that gives it the "fluffy" quality.) 7. Bake 1/2 hour in cherry-lined pan and other 1/2 in well-greased 8 in. layer pan in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 min. for plain layer, 45 min. for layer with cherries. Spread cold layers with sweetened whipped cream, using cherry layer on top. When men talk food women talk Pillsbury's. "Why, it tastes even better than it looks!" So get Pillsbury's Best Flour today—and try this new dessert in your own kitchen!

SAVE THIRTY STARS FROM Pillsbury packages. They're good for sterling silver, other premiums, too! For list, write Pillsbury Flour, Minneapolis.

GERMANS TRY TO SPLIT U.S. AND BRITAIN

Appeal To Every Emotion In Drive To Undermine American Beliefs.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In an article in The News-Journal yesterday Howard Blakeslee described some of the ramifications of Japanese propaganda. Today's article deals with Nazi propaganda.)

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Wide World Science Editor)

NEW YORK—German propaganda is one reason America is reading dispatches from Libya about effectiveness of American tanks.

The propaganda claimed British were losing their lives in poor American machines. This was countered by stories from American reporters.

In nearly three years now there has been probably no single war doubt in an American's mind that was not at some time on Berlin's propaganda short waves.

Short wave broadcasts, three hours daily, news bulletins, claims, hints, charges, rumors—a mass that may not look like sense, but in reality a consistent pattern.

Hitler himself laid down the principle; to aim at convincing the masses. That takes time, and Berlin is still trying. The object is to split Britons and Americans—split America's groups.

Berlin is seduced by talking to special American groups. There were the Women's Club, College Hour, Topical Talks, Music Lovers, Americans, Scandal-Mongers, Upper classes, Anti-Semites, Auto Drivers, Midwesterners, Unemployed, New Yorkers.

All centered, not so much on splitting, and not so much in creating pro-German feeling, as in destroying pro-British sentiment.

Berlin chose personable speakers. Fred W. Kaltenbach, ("My views are not necessarily those of this station"). He is not to be confused with the American Commentator Kaltenbach. He spoke with a midwestern drawl, is a native of Iowa, with a Berlin university doctorate. Once a week he talked to "Dear Harry and the folks back home."

There was E. D. Ward, another midwesterner, identified as Edward Delaney, publicity man, actor and author; Dr. Anders (Dr. otherwise), "Your Friend," who was Dr. Otto Koischwitz, German former member of Hunter college faculty, New York City.

And Constantine Drexel. Of her it is written by Jerome S. Bruner of Harvard that she was announced as a Philadelphia socialite but that her name was spelled Drexel in communications sent him by the German library of information in New York.

Gertrude Hahn was Gertrude the telephone operator. She played the role of a switchboard girl on a fictitious newspaper, the Pittsburgh Tribune, telling the paper's inner workings to her friend Nancy.

She let slip bits of condemnation for Rosenbloom and Finkelstein, her editors, so extremely pro-British that they twisted the dispatches sent from Berlin by the paper's German correspondent, Joe, Gertrude's friend.

Having thus established two legendary scapegoats, the Berlin radio next told its audience that 90 per cent of the foreign correspondents for American newspapers were British subjects.

The final step was a blanket charge that the American press as a whole was criminally stupid, the agent of Jews, warmongers and Wall Street.

Berlin works on the theory that you can talk to some of the people all the time. And on the theory that while one may reject most of it, he will grab at an idea which happens to rouse his emotions of the moment.

So they classified their web. One line asked—who is making the decisions in America, the politicians or the people? Another stimulated those who might doubt American conduct in the last war. Soon, these people were told, it will be time for burning of German textbooks.

Promoting fifth-column scares in America was another line. Some analysts think this was why the German radio warned that British and French secret services were planning to blow up the liners Manhattan and Roosevelt re-patriating Americans from abroad.

There was the terror line. Hitler's armies are irresistible. Another line attacked the ideals of Democracy, for those who had doubts of the American way. Yet another praised the American way of life by likening its chances for advancement to those in the new order in Germany. This was for the complacent, the complaisant and the opportunists.

"You can't beat a Yankee in a horse trade," came over the German ether one day. This compliment was for the destroyer-base exchange. But it also was significant of a swing away from trying to split people and politicians and toward trying for cleavage based on race and economics.

The Italians are playing sarcasm. The American army, says Rome, can never be much because of American decadence—the troops demand hotel service and barracks. Rome asserts 10,000 persons are employed in the American censorship. That number is declared needed to convince the American public that its army is invincible and Japan is losing.

Nicotinic acid, an important member of vitamin B complex—and not nicotine, has a new name, "Niacin," chosen by National Research Council.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Won't Talk, Eh?

OH! SO THAT'S IT, EH? ELDEEN TOLD HER ABOUT WARBUCKS' DEATH! GAD! WHAT ID LIKE TO DO TO THAT—THAT—

SO ANNIE'S GONE TO HER ROOM—TO CRY, I GUESS—THAT'S WHAT ID DO—

ANNIE! WERE ALL TERRIBLY SORRY, ANNIE—BUT THOSE THINGS HAPPEN—I SUPPOSE I SHOULD HAVE TOLD YOU—BUT, SOMEHOW, I COULDN'T—

I— I HOPED MAYBE IT WAS A MISTAKE— ANYWAY, I SAW NO HARM IN WAITING— I SHOULD HAVE KNOWN SOMEONE LIKE ELDEEN WOULD COME ALONG—

ANNIE! DO YOU HEAR ME? LOOK AT ME! SAY SOMETHING, ANNIE! YOU POOR KID! POOR, POOR, LITTLE TYKE!

BLONDIE—His Favorite Scent. By Chic Young

DAGWOOD! I WANT YOU TO SMELL THE LOVELY PERFUME I BOUGHT TODAY

SEE IF YOU CAN TELL WHAT SCENT IT IS

HAM AND CABBAGE

YOU'RE HOPELESS! I SPEND THREE DOLLARS FOR A BOTTLE OF PERFUME AND YOU TELL ME IT SMELLS LIKE HAM AND CABBAGE

I KNEW I SMELLED HAM AND CABBAGE

THE NEBBS—Looking It Over. By Sol Hess

OH, AMBROSE, YOU ARE SO INFLUENTIAL! HOW GRAND THAT YOU CAN TAKE ME THROUGH THIS FACTORY

IT TOOK A LOT OF SMOOTHY TALK TO GET A PASS, BUT RUDY IS TRYING TO GET ME TO PUT SOME MONEY INTO THIS PILL BUSINESS

MRS. SMITH, THIS IS MR. EMBERT, THE INVENTOR OF THE POWER PILL

I'M THRILLED TO MEET SUCH A GREAT INVENTOR!

OF COURSE, YOU REALIZE THAT WE CANNOT TAKE YOU THROUGH THE ENTIRE FACTORY

HOW DISAPPOINTING!

IT WAS SUCH A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE, SEEING THAT FACTORY— DIDN'T YOU THINK SO?

I DON'T SEE NOTHIN' BUT YOU! I WONDER IF MATHY MONY WOULD TAKE ME OUT OF THIS FOG, IM IN?

BRICK BRADFORD—On the Throne of Titania. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray

IT WILL BE A DIFFICULT TASK, BUT THE GHOST CAN DO IT!

MICKEY MOUSE—The Life of the Party! By Walt Disney

IT'S THE DAY AFTER GOLF'S PARTY AND AT MINNIE'S HOME THE DISAPPEARANCE OF ALAN MARSH'S JEWELS IS STILL A MYSTERY!

DON'T YOU GET A LOOK AT THE SOUNDREEL AT ALL, MARTHA?

NO, OF COURSE NOT! THE LIGHTS WERE ALL OUT AND HE WAS GONE IN A FLASH!

WELL, I'D JUST LIKE TO GET MY HANDS ON HIM FOR A FLASH!

WELL, I STILL DON'T BELIEVE THE LIGHTS WENT OUT, OR THERE EVER WAS A ROBBERY! IT'S JUST SOMEONE'S IDEA OF A JOKE!

SILLY! WHO'D GO TO ALL THAT TROUBLE FOR A GAG?

YOU WOULD! YOU'VE BEEN ACTING VERY PECULIAR LATELY!
